RE-OPEN BOMBARDED SCHOOL

Under protection of state police, the Curry school, attended largely by children of striking union miners, re-opened today. The school was bombarded by rifle fire Thursday and Friday.

ANNA WILLARD

Anna Willard, teacher of the school, rings the bell summoning her pupils, and then returns to her tasks, defying the terrorists.

NO FEAR HERE

"It's all over now, there's nothing to be afraid of," shouted one of these youngsters, "The 'states' are here!" To the children of the mines, arrival of the "States," meaning state police, is a signal that all the trouble is over.

BACK TO CLASSES, UNCONCERNED

The children, all of the lower grades age, went back to their studies entirely unconcerned while grim-faced state troopers patrol the school grounds. The children's implicit confidence in the state police and their utter dislike and contempt of the "coal-and-irons" is one of the outstanding sidelights of the present drive to eliminate the company-hired police as a state-legalized organization.

SECRETARY KELLOGG says the United States is "willing to sign a treaty with all powers of the world prohibiting the use of submarines entirely." That would be nice, but while awaiting the millennium, the United States should provide itself with the biggest fleet of submarines in the world. One submarine in war is more useful than a hundred battleships. And an adequate fleet of submarines backed up by a fighting air fleet would give the United States the security to which it is entitled.

AFTER our statesmen have made THIS country safe, they may appropriately begin worrying about other countries.

What America needs is the greatest fighting submarine fleet and air fleet and the highest possible development of deadly gases and explosives for war.

IT IS all very nice to agree that submarines and gases won't be used. But if war began, they WOULD be used, and nations lacking them would be asked, "What are you going to do about it?" And find no adequate answer.

THE Kings County Medical Society "condemns teaching birth control," pointing out, in horror, that, "Practice of birth control in this country from 1921 to 1926, reduced the birth rate 2.4 per cent to the 1,000 of population, although laws forbid its teaching."

VERY moral, perhaps sound. Caruso was the nineteenth child, birth control would have kept him from arriving. Birth control would have shut out Napoleon.

But eminently respectable doctors that say you musn't teach birth control to the poor woman with more children and less health and money than she needs are among the doctors that teach birth control to their rich patients. Can you explain that?

REOPEN CURRY SCHOOL

While Capt. J. C. Mauk, of the state police, prepared a report of his investigation of last week's rifle bombardments at Curry and Bruceton, three deputy sheriffs and three state policemen mounted guard in the Curry schoolyard this morning to prevent a repetition of last Friday's attack on school children by snipers.

And, as they did so, there appeared on the scene a coal and iron policeman, a fellow officer of the man who is alleged to have hired

Red Menace At Mines

Open Hearings Friday On Mine Strike Probe

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6.—The Senate Interstate Commerce Committee will open hearings Friday on the Johnson resolution calling for a Senatorial investigation of conditions in Pennsylvania, Ohio and West Virginia bituminous strike fields, Chairman Watson announced today.

Conditions of inconceivable misery in the mining towns of the Pittsburgh district, constituting "a crying indictment of the authorities here and at Washington," will be laid before the Interstate Commerce Committee of the United States Senate at a meeting in Washington by Senator Burton K. Wheeler, Democrat, of Montana, who spent about 12 hours yesterday on a personal investigation of mining towns.

"I expect to make a motion at this meeting to have the committee make this investigation of the coal strike its first

FAIL TO FIND 10 ON ICE

BUFFALO, N. Y., Feb. 6.—Two airplanes chartered by newspapers returned from flights over the southern edge of Lake Erie today without news of 10 men reported adrift on an ice floe which broke away from shore Sunday.

While the plane observers scanned the ice-flecked waters without avail, all resources of the government lake marine service were being concentrated in the hunt for the men. The search was being hampered by hard packed ice, would

MRS. IVY THOMS

"I hate you for helping that murderer," screamed Mrs. Ivy Thoms as Jerome Walsh, attorney for William Edward Hickman, "The Fox," rose in his preliminary defense of the youth who killed Marian Parker, 12, at Los Angeles. Mrs. Thoms is the widow of a Los Angeles druggist, who, police said, was killed by Hickman and Welby Hunt during a holdup of his store some months before the Parker crime.

POLICE SHOT IN RIOT

CALIFORNIA, Pa., Feb. 6.—Two coal and iron policemen were wounded today by a load of buckshot fired by someone in a crowd of 300 persons engaged in mass picketing at the Crescent mine of the Pittsburgh Coal Company, Phillipsburg.

Earlier mass picketing by men, women and children had been broken up at the Vesta mines.

State police from California and Washington, Pa., were sent to Daisytown, Coal Center and other towns

AS WHEELER SEES STRIKE

IF WE had a Roosevelt or a Wilson in the White House, in my judgment, this condition would not have been permitted to prevail as it has for the last 11 months.

The hillsides of Pennsylvania are the most fertile breeding grounds of anarchy and Bolshevism I have ever seen, comparable to conditions I saw in the cities of China last year.

It is inconceivable to me that the mining companies in Pittsburgh should practically throw these families, including women and children, into the streets in mid-winter, particularly as many of the houses today are still empty and not used by the companies.

I have listened all day to stories of brutalities by the coal and iron police. I cannot understand a great state like Pennsylvania turning over to the mining companies the enforcement of the laws. In my judgment it is absolutely contrary to the fundamental principles on which our government was founded.

I have been surprised to find the wives of the strikers so insistent that their husbands continue the strike. One woman said she would divorce her husband if he went back to work.

DORIS MERCER GIVEN DIVORCE FROM KRESGE

By International News Service

NEW YORK, Feb. 6.—Mrs. Doris M. Kresge, the former Doris Mercer, of Pittsburgh, today in Supreme Court won her right to a divorce from her husband, Sebastian S. Kresge, multi-millionaire ten-cent store magnate and Anti-Saloon League backer.

A jury, following brief consideration of the charges of misconduct against Kresge, five of them concerning Gladys Adele Fish, returned a verdict against Kresge who had not contested the action.

Justice Tierney was expected late today to enter an order granting Mrs. Kresge an interlocutory decree.

Mrs. Kresge was not awarded alimony because she and her husband reached a property settlement before the action was begun.

AIM AT HIS INSANITY PLEA

By ARTHUR L. MAREK,
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Feb. 6.—Prosecution alienists today sought to erase from the minds of the jury in the Marian Parker kidnaping and murder trial a scarlet letter "H" which, the defense contends brands William Edward Hickman as a beardless madman.

Dr. Paul E. Bowers, who drew with a door key the crimson letter on Hickman's snow-white chest and back as an asserted mark of insanity, was prepared today to explain it by saying that red lines do not show the presence of dermatographia. Were Hickman truly dermatographic, Dr. Bowers was ready to testify, the key strokes would have raised a welt and not the "diffused erythema" which the jurors beheld last Saturday when Hickman stood half naked before them.

The defense alienists contend that dermatographia is a symptom of dementia praecox "on account of the frequency of endocrine disturbances in this disease." The words in quotation are from the definition of Dr. A. L. Skogg, internationally known neurologist, who testified that Hickman has shown marked signs of insanity.

Alienists employed by the state admit that dermatographia sometimes is present in dementia, but, they assert, so is indigestion and a thousand and one other ailments.

"One nut does not make a machine. Neither does a top and a set of tires make an automobile," Dr. Bowers told the jurors in refutation of the defense argument that the presence of dermatographia indicates dementia.

Dr. Bowers, who was on the stand when the sanity hearing adjourned Saturday after Hickman had been stripped to the waist and the courtroom had been turned into a clinic, was to be recalled to the witness box today.

He was to be followed by an array of state's alienists prepared to combat Hickman's defense that he is not guilty of the Marian Parker kidnaping and murder by reason of insanity.

Due to the coal strike demonstration last Thursday and Friday when the Curry school was bombarded with rifle fire, pupils of that school came to school this morning protected by a detail of deputy sheriffs and state police. SENATE PROBERS HIT SNAG IN OIL CASE

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6.—The Senate Public Lands Committee struck a blind trail today in seeking to discover who, besides Albert B. Fall and James E. O'Neil, shared the $3,080,000 Liberty Bond fund that grew out of the Continental Oil Company's mysterious oil deal.

Having traced $600,000 to O'Neil and $230,000 to Fall, the committee sought today to discover whether the Sinclair Crude Oil Company did not also get some of the bonds, but H. L. Phillips, president of the concern, swore that it did not.

The Prairie Oil and Gas Company and the Sinclair company, the record showed, participated equally in buying oil from the Continental after guaranteeing the latter company. Phillips said he was "particularly surprised" to hear that O'Neil had made a restitution to the Prairie company.

"This whole deal was fraught with suspicions at almost every turn in the transaction," Senator Walsh (Dem.), of Montana, told the witness. "Hasn't the whole thing caused you to suspect the whole transaction?"

"I haven't known about it," Phillips replied.

"Well, the committee feels there is an obligation on the part of every citizen of the United States to help it fathom this transaction, which was tainted with suspicions throughout," said Walsh earnestly, "and as it has been disclosed, with a large part of its profits going into the pockets of Albert B. Fall shortly after the execution of the Mammoth Oil Company's lease of the Teapot Dome oil reserves, I am astonished that you gentlemen don't feel some patriotic duty in this matter."

As Phillips left the stand the committee adjourned until 10 o'clock tomorrow. It was announced that a subpena had been served on George S. Tabor, Jr., chairman of the Sinclair Crude Oil, and that he would testify tomorrow.

Boost Pay Of County Workers

Liberal salary increases were granted county employes by the County Salary Board, at its opening session today. Contrary to predictions made by the Commissioners some time ago, that increases would be few and far between, the Commissioners acting as heads of the salary board opened the county purse strings, and with few exceptions granted all increases asked.

The increases granted today totaled $10,084 a year. In addition, the Commissioners created five new positions with salaries aggregating $14,040 annually. A payroll of $4,000 a year for additional help during the county tax-paying period was granted County Treasurer John Francies. The increases, new positions and extra help, aggregate an annual payroll of $30,124.

The recorder of deeds office was the severest hit. Recorder Samuel D. Foster was refused 16 new transcribing clerks and increases in salaries for 74 transcribing clerks. The payroll for these positions amounts to over $35,000 a year.

The Commissioners, in denying the increases in the recorder's office, said that the transcribing clerks were not entitled to boosts in wages as they have received two increases in the last two years. Every deputy sheriff was given slight increases this year. The most important position created was a chief clerk in the register of deeds office. The salary pays $3,600 a year.

3 MIAMI BANKS CLOSE; HEAVY RUN ON 4TH

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 6.—(AP.)—A determine run on the First National Bank began during the noon hour today following the failure of three other Miami financial institutions to open for business today.

The bank's large lobby accommodated all who sought to gain admittance up to 12:30.

Other large banks reported normal business conditions.

THREE BANKS CLOSE

The three banks which failed to open today were the Southern Bank and Trust Company, the Citizens' Bank and the Bank of Allapattah.

The Southern Bank and Trust Company requested Comptroller Ames to assume charge of its affairs, pending strengthening of finances, following heavy withdrawals of deposits caused by circulation of anonymous letters predicting its failure.

Mr. Ames ordered the other institutions not to open in the belief that they were not in financial position to withstand large withdrawals which might result from excitement incident to the closing of the Southern Bank and Trust Company. Under normal conditions they could operate, he said, adding that there had been no sign of a run at either place.

stopped, and many facing starvation."

A NATION is a living thing, like a language or a human being. It is difficult to build living things artificially. Yet the business genius of the Jewish race might at least make a commercial success of the Palestine enterprise.

SIR WALTER GIBBONS has secretly bought 66 theaters in Great Britain and will build many more to fight "The American movie invasion." That movie invasion sells American goods and ideas, and brings tens of millions to American workers and American companies.

OUR lawmakers should encourage the efficiency and large scale business of American movie concerns instead of seeking to interfere with that business.

The motto today in industry and commerce is, "the bigger the better."

Let the little man work for the big man, giving faithful service for good pay, until he finds his chance to become one of the big men.

THE Federal Reserve Bank, raising its discount rate said "boo" to the little boys of Wall Street and frightened them for a moment last Friday.

But the week closed with a "brisk rally," and the poor bears were once more busy with their "urgent covering."

What goes up must come down, of course, but you never can be quite sure how HIGH it is going, or how far down it will come. Better not sell short, yet.

H. G. SELFRIDGE, JR., son of an able Chicago father, says unemployment in England is caused by the "dole" paid by Britain to the unemployed.

Men being naturally lazy, if you give them a "dole" to prevent starvation, they will "loaf indefinitely." That's the theory.

THE "dole" has disadvantages, but British statesmen know that a million men on the dole even "loafing" are safer citizens than a million men starving, ready with a mainspring for revolution, and an argument for bolshevism.

DR. ROBERT EISLER, of Vienna, in an old Slavonic translation of Josephus' history, discovers a paragraph, proving, historically, the existence of Christ. The paragraph tells how Judea refused to obey orders to worship statues of the Roman emperor Caligula, and mentions "the lawless ones of our (the Jewish) nation, who had leaned toward Jesus, the Son of Pandera, the Nazarean."

Lack of "historical confirmation" of the existence of Christ would disturb only those that would ask for proof of the sun's existence at bright noonday.

TEN LOST ON ICE

lake coast guard vessels could penetrate only with great difficulty.

The men were cast adrift while fishing from the edge of the ice pack, which was reported to be six inches deep. They had small quantity of firewood, but no food, as far as was known.

While one plane set out from Cleveland, another headed up the lake from Buffalo. They skirted the shore, but observers said a stiff wind blowing since Sunday might have carried the floe with its human burden far into the lake.

Meanwhile the coast guard cutter Edward E. Capt. Paul Forner, master, returned after bucking ice floes along the shore, without trace of the missing men.

Some doubt was expressed that the men had been cast adrift, but residents along the Canadian shore were positive in their assertions that they had seen the men drifting away from land as the ice broke cleavage with the shore.

On their assurances, the hunt was continued by coast guardsmen, who thought the men must be in desperate plight, if adrift. Prevalence of near zero weather buoyed hopes that the floe would not break up before the men were rescued.

MONONGAHELA OPENS MINERS' RELIEF POST

MONONGAHELA, Pa., Feb. 6.—A relief station for destitute miners, was opened in Fifth street this afternoon, following a mass meeting here Saturday night at which Dr. Chester Stahlman, mayor, was named head of a community relief organization. Money, clothing and food will be solicited and distributed from this central headquarters to those who have been found in need by recognized agencies.

CONNEAUT LAKE ICE CROP IS HARVESTED

CONNEAUT LAKE, Pa., Feb. 6.—The annual ice crop is being harvested from Conneaut Lake. The ice is from six to eight inches thick, and officials of the local company expect to ship away 75 car loads within the next few days. Several ice houses here which blew down in a storm last year were not rebuilt, and the few remaining will be filled quickly.

WINDS PREVENT LEVINE FLIGHT

ROOSEVELT FIELD, N. Y., Feb. 6.—(INS.)—Because of strong winds here today, Wilmer Stultz, pilot of Charles A. Levine's trans-Atlantic monoplane Columbia, announced that the plane's scheduled start on a long southern flight would not be made until tomorrow at the earliest.

Stultz and Levine, with Miss Mabel Boll, the so-called "Queen of Diamonds" as a passenger, plan to fly as far as Havana, without stopping or refuelling, and possibly farther.

during the hearing Justice Tierney was heard to say:

"Hypocrisy!"

The comment was made when counsel for Mrs. Kresge answering an inquiry on the part of the court, explained that the defendant was the wealthy chain-store operator and that he recently had gained wide notice by a heavy donation to the Anti-Saloon League.

This came after witnesses had told of finding Kresge with Miss Fish in the apartment it is alleged he maintained as "Mr. Jones," and after a detective told of trailing the capitalist from a Methodist church direct to a rendezvous with Miss Fish.

3 Women Attacked In Night

Three women were attacked in Pittsburgh last night, all battling off their assailants.

Miss Nellie McKim, 23, of 2142 Mount Hope road, reported that a man grabbed her on the Island Avenue Bridge late last night. She battled and screamed until he fled.

ATTACKED ON BRIDGE

As Mrs. R. Newman, 1323 Page avenue, was crossing the Pennsylvania Avenue Bridge a Negro attempted to snatch her purse. She broke away and ran to a nearby store.

Mrs. Charles Barker, 1953 San Juan street, reported to county detectives that she had fought herself free from two men who had attempted to drag her to a secluded spot at the end of the Lincoln avenue street car line. She said she recognized her assailants.

POLICEMEN SHOT

in the vicinity of Vesta Coal Company mines to preserve order among the pickets who have been staging demonstrations throughout the district since last Friday.

Hundreds of miners and their families were on the roads in and around California as early as 4 o'clock this morning. When they were warned about congregating in groups around the mine entrances, many continued on into town where they were allowed to gather unmolested by local police.

State police, however, insisted on the enforcement of the unlawful assembly act, even within the borough limits, and a detail of troopers broke up a number of gatherings and cleared the town by 6 o'clock.

SHOT FIRED FROM CROWD

A number of the strikers evidently went on to Phillipsburg where they were joined by others in mass picketing around the Crescent mine. Coal and iron police attempted to break up the demonstration and a shot was fired from the crowd, it is said.

J. D. Buttermore and F. P. Byrne, members of the Pittsburgh Coal Company police force, were struck by buckshot, but neither was injured seriously, it was reported.

The union people in this district are restive. They are on the roads from 4 a. m., when the nonunion workers go into the mines, until 3 and 4 o'clock in the afternoon when they return home.

In districts patrolled by state police the unionites obey the laws to the letter, maintaining legal picketing groups who inform any who go into the mine that a strike is on.

A number of women have relieved the men on the picket line at Vesta No. 4, near Daisytown. Their shrill voices ring out from the still blackness of early morning: "Strike on, Buddy! Don't take our men's jobs."

The high pitch under which union men and their families are laboring was evidenced early this morning when a Sun-Telegraph representative set off a flashlight to take a photograph of the picket line at Daisytown and the report spread among union forces that police had fired a bomb at the pickets.

HOLD GIRL FOR STORE THEFTS

When receipts in the grocery department showed a sudden slump, A. H. Wolfeson, manager of a downtown store, turned sleuth and cleared up the mystery, he testified in Morals Court today.

In the basement locker of Mary Crocker, 22, 601 Sandusky street, a clerk, Wolfeson said he found $15 in quarters, dimes and nickels. The pocket of a working jacket belonging to Mary yielded $9.72, he testified.

Mary was held for court on a larceny charge by Magistrate A. D. Brandon. She denied taking the money, saying she kept her wages in her locker as the safest place.

Man Found Shot in Garage

A bullet in his stomach, a few inches below the heart, Grant Shaner, 60, was found in the office of his garage at Harwick today. He told state police he had been shot by "a little short man" after an argument.

Corp. Edward Lattick and Private John Morgan, of the state police, learned that Shaner was worried by ill health and business affairs.

Edward Shaner, son of the wounded man, found him stretched out on a bench in the office after 8 a. m. At the New Kensington Hospital it was said he will recover.

the snipers at $25 each. He held aloof from the other officers, keeping to himself across the road from the schoolhouse, along the fringe of Pittsburgh Terminal Coal Company property which he is assigned to guard.

There was no trouble as the children straggled back to school after their unexpected holiday, but the youngsters were visibly excited. It was a novel experience to go to school under the guns of state and county officers. Some appeared frightened, but the bolder among them seemed to enjoy the unusual thrill.

REPORTS TO FISHER

Capt. Mauk's report will be handed to Gov. John S. Fisher today or tomorrow. The captain will not make public any part of his investigation, nor will he be quoted as to present conditions in Curry and Bruceton.

County detectives and Sheriff Robert H. Braun completed their investigations Saturday, but no definite steps were taken, nor is it believed any arrests or legal action will follow.

Conditions in other sections of Western Pennsylvania remain about the same. In the Allegheny valley and in Daisytown, however, there is tenseness in the air, according to police of these districts, and they are on the alert for signs of restlessness, particularly among certain factions of the union men.

At Russellton, where the Republic Iron and Steel Company mines resumed operations with non-union help about a week ago, the union forces continue to keep a 24-hour picket line. A number of strikebreakers have been brought in from the outside and company officials say they will be ready to begin mining coal within the next few days. So far, the only work done has been some badly needed repairs and general cleaning up in the shaft. Deputy sheriffs, hired by the company, are in charge of the situation, but state police from Harmarville are on patrol duty throughout the district.

WASHINGTON WOMAN SPILLS EVIDENCE; HELD

WASHINGTON, Pa., Feb. 6.—When police raided the home of Mrs. Mary Kukoski last night, confiscating a rubber water bottle full of moonshine, police say, the woman grabbed a butcher knife and slashed open the bottle, held by one of the officers. The evidence spilled on the floor. Mrs. Kukoski was arrested, nevertheless.

MAY ORDER TROOPS TO MINES

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 6.—(AP.)—Possibility of National Guard troops eventually being sent into the Belmont county coal fields as a result of alleged communistic activities loomed today following serious disturbances last night at the Florence mine near St. Clairsville.

After a conference with Adjutant General Henderson today, Gov. Donahey said:

"This is a government of law and the law must be obeyed. Violence must not take place. If violence continues troops will be forthcoming, no difference whether the miners or the operators are to blame."

Federal Judge Benson W. Hough said today that at a conference of mine union officials and operators with him last Saturday, both sides had disavowed responsibility for the disturbances which have been going on about the Florence mine for several days, and attributed the agitation to communists. Adjutant General Henderson said his reports from Lieut. Col. Don L. Caldwell bore out this contention.

BLAST ICE; FLOOD IS AVERTED

NEW CASTLE, Pa., Feb. 6.—A damaging flood was prevented here yesterday when ice, which had formed a gorge in the Neshannock River at the Rosena Furnace dam, broke and passed over the dam.

Workers, using dynamite to break the gorge, had been unsuccessful, when suddenly the ice, thinned by the warmer weather of the last few days, broke under the force of the rising water beneath it.

Cellars in buildings adjacent to the river had been filling with water, and a serious flood would have resulted had the gorge not given way.

STATE TROOPS PRESERVE ORDER WHERE COAL-AND-IRON POLICE FAILED

State police were on duty today at the Vesta Coal Company's No. 4 mine near Daisytown. They were assigned there after coal and iron police, in employ of the company, had been unable to prevent disorder along the union picket line. Three of the Coal-and-Irons—their waists bristling with heavy pistols and cartridge belts—are photographed here behind the state police lines. The state troopers, without a gun showing, preserved order where the heavily and openly armed Coal-and-Irons failed. The company police can be identified by their caps. The state officers are wearing helmets.

HORSE CAVE, Ky., Feb. 6.—(AP.)—J. W. McFarland, 82, died here yesterday as the result of a yawn, according to his physicians. Two weeks ago, McFarland, while yawning, dislocated both his jaw bones.

Physicians succeeded in resetting the jaws after 24 hours, but McFarland never rallied from the shock. He is survived by nine children.

ENDS LIFE OVER CLUB CRASH

By International News Service.

WINCHESTER, Mass., Feb. 6.—Henry M. Haven, Boston architect, who was one of those technically indicted in connection with the collapse of the Pickwick Night Club Building, and the loss of 55 lives in 1925, took his life by inhaling illuminating gas at his home here today, according to police.

Last week, Haven, who was 56, was found unconscious from carbon monoxide gas poisoning in his garage. His automobile motor was running. A policeman saved Haven's life.

THREE ESCAPE INJURY WHEN CAR HITS AUTO

Three persons escaped injury this morning when the automobile was struck by a Mt. Lebanon street car in West Liberty avenue at Cape May avenue. The machine, driven by Morris Handelman, of 1134 King avenue, and in which his wife and another woman were riding, turned into West Liberty avenue in front of the car from Cape May avenue.

URGE OUSTING OF CHURCH HEADS

Steps toward taking an appeal to Bishop Francis J. McConnell, of the Methodist Episcopal Church, in an effort to secure a voice in the appointment of a successor to Dr. T. M. Sankey, former teacher of the Callender Bible Class of South Avenue M. E. Church, Wilkinsburg, will be discussed by members of the class at a special meeting Thursday night. A special committee of members will discuss steps toward ousting the Rev. Sheridan W. Bell, pastor, and V. R. Covell, Sunday school superintendent, it is said.

Prof. W. H. Martin, borough school superintendent, taught the class yesterday although no teacher has been definitely chosen as yet. The members of the class have refused to accept two teachers appointed by the superintendent since the ousting of Dr. Sankey. Wives, sons and daughters of class members are said to be taking up the fight in other classes of the Sunday school.

JUDGE ORDERS HALLS CLEARED

President Judge John A. Evans today ordered court officers to keep the lobbies of the courthouse cleared and to discourage loitering.

The action was regarded as an answer to rumors that "jury-fixers" have been seen in the building.

While the order did not instruct the officers to eject persons standing in the corridors, the passageways were kept clear and visitors in the hallways were required to stand against the walls.

ST. RITA NOVENA TO BE OBSERVED AT EPIPHANY

The St. Rita novena of nine Tuesdays, in preparation for Good Friday, starts in Epiphany Church, Washington place, tomorrow. Services will be held every Tuesday at 8 o'clock in the morning, 3 o'clock in the afternoon and 7:45 o'clock in the evening. The Rev. Law A. O'Connell, who will conduct the novena, has arranged a series of talks on the virtues of the saint.

Physicians Advise Thin-Blooded People To Eat More Liver

Hundreds of Thousands Eating Liver to Get Rich, Red Blood.

Physicians in New York and other cities who have tested and prescribed a diet of beefs liver in cases of poverty of the blood or anemia are now prescribing a preparation called Hemo-Liver, which is made by a scientific process from fresh beefs livers.

By this process the "Mysterious Substance" or vital elements that are obtained by eating liver are extracted and put up in the form of an elixir which is very palatable and pleasant to taste.

Hemo-Liver is full of the vital elements or "Mysterious Substance" that is one of the great discoveries of recent years and by taking a tablespoonful three times a day you'll get more and quicker benefit than by eating pounds of liver.

Every progressive druggist sells Hemo-Liver in a big 12-ounce bottle that will last eight days.

"Men and women who are suffering from lowered vitality, general weakness, overwork, nervous breakdown or anemia can put their faith in Hemo-Liver. For feeble old people, girls 13 to 18 and in convalescence it won't fail. It strengthens the nerves, increases the red blood cells, promotes health and rebuilds energy so quickly that often physicians are astonished."

Why not get a bottle of Hemo-Liver today—eight days' treatment—and if after you have taken one bottle you don't say Hemo-Liver is the greatest health builder you ever heard of—get your money back.

Not a patent medicine, mind you—but the "Mysterious Substance" or vitamines extracted from fresh beefs livers. Get Hemo-Liver at May Drug Co. Stores.

ASHINSKY WON'T RETURN HERE

Rabbi A. M. Ashinsky, orthodox Jewish leader who left Pittsburgh to take charge of synagogues in Detroit, will decline invitation to return here, he said today. He is the guest of Louis Borkon, 2321 Sherbrooke street, and will participate tonight in a celebration of the Zionist arbor day. A committee from the orthodox community was to invite him to resume his work here.

"My former field in the Hill district of Pittsburgh is rapidly disintegrating and since going to Detroit I am more than ever convinced that my best work for my faith, the Jewish people and myself, can be done in that city.

"In my former scenes of labor here the people are rapidly moving away to other parts of the city. In Detroit the Jewish population exceeds 100,000, while in Pittsburgh it is about 35,000. There is a strong Jewish colonization in Detroit and it affords opportunity for me to concentrate my efforts as I had done for years in the Hill district here."

Rabbi Ashinsky declared that the observance of the Jewish arbor day in Palestine had converted part of the land into vast orchards of orange, citron and olive trees. Reclaimed after 2,000 years of devastation, he says fruit culture is thriving in the Holy Land as a result of modern methods introduced by the United States Department of Agriculture.

HUNT THREE YOUTHS IN "PRANK BOMBING"

KANE, Pa., Feb. 6.—Police today indicated they would soon have under arrest the three young men who set off a blast that shattered windows and shook houses over a 30-mile radius Friday night.

The men, so police assert, stole 10 quarts of nitroglycerin from an oil well, some dynamite from a sand company and touched off the detonation caps withtin two miles of Kane.

UNABLE TO WORK TWENTY WEEKS

Local Man Back on Job, After Using Ten Herbs: "Looks Like a New Man."

"My husband suffered so much with his stomach that he lost 15 pounds; was down in bed for quite a while, and could not work for 20 weeks, but, after taking Ten Herbs, he is back on the job, and looks like a new man," was the statement of Mrs. Elizabeth Heil, a popular lady, who lives at 209 Chestnut Street, North Side, Pittsburgh, to the Ten Herbs Man, who is at May's Main Store, 529 Liberty Avenue, Pittsburgh, where he is daily demonstrating this great natural medicine. "Nearly everything he ate would upset his stomach," Mrs. Heil continued. "Food would sour, and seemed to fill his stomach with gas and acid. A hot, sour liquid would arise in his throat and choke him. At times he would suffer with such severe gas spells at night that he would have to walk the floor. He was so constipated sometimes he would go for days without relief.

"He tried about every kind of medicine he knew about, but nothing helped him, excepting Ten Herbs. It proved to be just what he needed, and he improved rapidly. His appetite is good, and he can eat almost anything without suffering afterwards. He is not bothered with gas or acid in his stomach, and has gained in weight and strength. We recommend Ten Herbs to all who are suffering as he did."

Many others in this section are praising Ten Herbs. They say it gives surprising results in relieving disorders of the stomach and liver, such as gas, bloating, sourness, belching sour liquid or bits of food, burning or heavy feeling in stomach, heart palpitation due to gas pressure, loss of appetite, inability to sleep, biliousness, dizziness, sallow complexion, spots before the eyes, and tired feeling. Ten Herbs also benefits the kidneys, and regulates the bowels. It gives the system a thorough cleansing, eliminating poisonous waste matter and impurities, which may be the cause of much suffering you cannot understand.

The Ten Herbs Man is at May's Main Store, 529 Liberty Avenue, Pittsburgh, where he is daily meeting the public and explaining the merits of this medicine. Free sample given.

Old Sores and Ulcers Can Be Healed!

Many a person has succeeded in healing stubborn old sores and ulcers with applications of Peterson's Ointment after expensive treatments had utterly failed.

Here is a letter well worth reading and if you have a friend afflicted the same, why not send him this?

"About a year ago, I contracted 15 varicose ulcers on my arm which rapidly grew worse. They extended up my whole arm, one-half inch deep. I used several salves, but instead of making my arm better they made it worse. Blood poisoning nearly set in. Doctors told me I would have to have my arm amputated. Finally I read about your Peterson's Ointment in the newspapers and began to use it. After several boxes I began to see an improvement, and within a short time the ulcers were entirely closed up and healed. I am glad to say a good word for Peterson's Ointment and you can refer to me any time."—Mrs. Patrick O'Neill, Buffalo, N. Y.

Nearly every druggist recommends Peterson's Ointment and you can get a good-sized box for only 35 cents.

Tickle Your Toes To Test Mind, Says Will

WILL ROGERS

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Feb. 6.—Well the actinists in the murder trial again took the comedy honors Saturday. One testified that Hickman was insane because when he tickled the bottom of his feet, his big toe turned up instead of down. So take off your shoes and have somebody tickle you and see which way your toes go, North or South. I tried it and mine didn't pay any attention to it, so I guess I am a cross between crazy and sane. Say did you read what Calvin told the newspapers? Said while you are bragging on nations give this one a boost.

Yours,
WILL ROGERS.

MISTAKEN FOR BANDIT, SLAIN

Shot down when mistaken for a robber in a store in Norwalk, Conn., James Cole, Jr., 20, of Oakdale, died in the Norwalk Hospital a few hours later, according to word received here by the boy's mother, Mrs. Mabel Cole. The shooting occurred late Saturday night. John Tullio, proprietor of the store, is being held without bail on a charge of manslaughter.

Norwalk police believe Tullio's story of an attempted holdup was greatly exaggerated and that he was nervous because of a recent robbery in his store. He had been carrying a revolver in his blouse since the other robbery, police say.

Cole, the youngest of six children, had resided in Oakdale for several years. He left home last October to work with a subscription crew selling magazines and for the last few months had been working in Norwalk.

AUTHOR SHOOTS HERSELF

DOVER, O., Feb. 6.—(INS.)—Mme. Elizabeth DesJeans, 56, novelist and Orient traveler, of Los Angeles, was found dead in her bed here today, a bullet in her brain and an old-fashioned pistol clutched in her hand. She had been making her home here with relatives for the last six months gathering material for a new book.

Mme. Des Jeans was the daughter of Capt. Leroy James, U. S. A., who during 17 years of his later life, is said to have acted as military advisor to the Mikado's government.

2 DIE IN CRASH AT FORD CITY

KITTANNING, Pa., Feb. 6.—Charles Mauk is alive today, he believes, because he played a "hunch" in refusing to make the customary automobile trip home from Ford City late Saturday with two fellow coal miners.

The latter, Ernest Hetrick, 46, and James Johnson, 46, both of Kittanning, were instantly killed when their car was demolished by a Pittsburgh-bound Pennsylvania Railroad passenger train at the Ford City Bridge grade crossing.

order of business," Senator Wheeler declared last night, before leaving for Washington.

"The committee has been extremely busy with railroad, radio and other legislation, but these are matter of property rights as distinguished from human rights. I feel quite sure that when this situation is presented to the committee that it will report the resolution out immediately and that the United States Senate will promptly order an investigation of the whole situation."

"Amazed and shocked" at conditions he found in the mining camps, Senator Wheeler declared, "the hillsides of Pennsylvania are most fertile breeding grounds of anarchy and Bolshevism I have ever seen, comparable to conditions I saw in the cities of China last year."

SURPRISED AT APATHY

He expressed surprise that the people of Pittsburgh are not more aroused by the conditions of misery on the fringe of this city of wealth.

"If we had a Roosevelt or a Wilson in the White House, in my judgment, this condition would not have been permitted to prevail as it has prevailed for the last 11 months," Senator Wheeler declared.

Delving into the shooting into union miners' houses at Bruceton Thursday, Senator Wheeler said he had been given testimony incriminating coal and iron police. He said: "A Mrs. Fishman, who runs a store there, told me that a number of coal and iron police not only stood by and watched these Negro strike-breakers shooting, but that she and her daughters had seen the police join in the shooting."

Senator Wheeler said he asked coal and iron police why they had not prevented the shooting and they replied that only one or two were there and could not have prevented it, might possibly have been shot themselves.

"I am convinced that a number were there and stood idly by," he said.

An account of the Senator's interview with the police was that one said a brick was thrown instead of shots being fired and that Senator Wheeler flared up and said, after examining the houses, "Don't you think I know the difference between a brick and buckshot and rifle shot?"

VISIT IS OFFICIAL

Senator Wheeler, when interviewed last night on his return from the strike zone, said that he made the trip to Pittsburgh for a one-day personal tour of the mining towns.

"As a member of the Interstate Commerce Committee, to which the resolution of Senator Johnson for an investigation was referred, I wanted to get some first-hand information," he said. "I felt that there had been a good deal of exaggeration of conditions, but my visit here has more than confirmed the reports. It has been most profitable and enlightening."

The Senator visited union barracks at Bruceton, Broughton, Curry, Horning, Coverdale, Russelton, Harmarville, Harwick and Acmetonia. He interviewed scores of strikers and their families, coal and iron policemen, deputy sheriffs and local magistrates in the various communities. He made it plain that he saw no leaders on either side of the controversy, barely recalled that he had accidentally met Thomas Robertson, a union miner organizer, at Broughton.

"I was amazed to find so many men on strike and to find them as peaceable as they are," the Senator said.

"I know something about strikes, living near mining camps in Montana for 22 years. In 1913 we had warfare conditions in Montana when the copper miners went on strike. Many things were done on both sides that I could not condone. But hard-boiled as were the operators, then, they did not eject the miners from their houses.

AMAZED AT EVICTIONS

"It is inconceivable to me that the mining companies in Pittsburgh should practically throw these families, including women and children, into the streets in mid-winter, particularly as many of the houses today are still empty and not used by the companies.

"I have listened all day to stories of brutalities by the coal and iron police supposed to enforce the law in the employ of the mining companies themselves. I cannot understand a great state like Pennsylvania turning over to the mining companies the enforcement of the laws. In my judgment it is absolutely contrary to the fundamental principles on which this government of ours was founded.

"I have been shocked by the living conditions in the thin shacks housing families of 10 or 12 in two rooms, of six and seven children sleeping in one bed, by stories of children living for a week at a time without milk, families without food. I was shocked by the tale of the death of Mrs. Joseph Labrosky at Harmarville after being evicted from a company house.

NAB 12 CHINESE IN GAME RAID

Twelve Chinese were arrested by police in a raid on an alleged gambling game in Hip Sing Tong headquarters, 517 Second avenue, yesterday. Police, interrupting a large fan tan game captured all the participants, although several tried to escape through second-floor windows. Lee Kee was charged with being the proprietor and the others with visiting a gambling house. All will be given hearings today.

More than a hundred alleged loafers, panhandlers and suspicious characters were arrested in the downtown and Hill district yesterday in a cleanup staged under the direction of Inspector John P. Clancey. They will also be arraigned in Central Police Court today.

ALIQUIPPA BOY HIT IN EYE BY ARROW

ALIQUIPPA, Pa., Feb. 6.—Playing "Indian" with other boys last night, William Bates, 11, of 442 Highland avenue, was struck in the left eye by a reed, used as an arrow. He was taken to the Mercy Hospital in Pittsburgh and it is believed he may lose his sight in the eye.

What does Science know about Life, Sex, and Love?

Why We Behave Like Human Beings

By GEORGE A. DORSEY, PH.D., LL.D.

Formerly Assoc. Professor of Anthropology, University of Chicago and Curator of Anthropology, Field Museum of Natural History

The work that gives you a clear understanding of yourself and every one you know. A revealing book of extraordinary scope which tears aside the curtain of mystery that for most of us hangs before the truths of love and life. All of science, all of modern philosophy and a wise man's knowledge of human nature are in this one great book! ¶ Clearly written, it holds your interest gripped in this greatest drama of all and will continue to hold your mind and influence your thoughts years after you have finished reading it. ¶ It contains an extraordinary number of facts representing a lifetime of study, facts presented with the accuracy of the scientist and the dramatic skill of the greatest novelist!

Stops Coughs Quickly; healing, demulcent

"I was bothered with a hard persistent cough, but found no other remedy so good and so quickly relieving as Foley's Honey and Tar Compound," says E. Boggess, Pomona, Calif. Coughs and throat irritations, hard bronchial coughs, lingering "flu" coughs, almost instantly stopped. It combines the curative influence of pure pine tar and the mollifying demulcent action of fresh clear honey with other healing ingredients. A boon to those who suffer from troublesome night coughs. Color Counts in Umbrellas, Too!

It's as difficult to get along with one umbrella to carry with every costume as it is to make a single hat do for an entire season.

Cocoa-tan and Brighter-than-Navy Blue are two practical choices for this season, since one or the other of them is almost sure to blend with any of the new spring shades.

Women's silk umbrellas in these shades, $5 to $18.

An English Dining Room Set, $395.00

A set of great dignity and simple beauty. Of English seventeenth century style, it is of walnut and gumwood, with fine burl walnut panels and wood mouldings as its decoration. A 66-inch buffet, china closet with glass door front, server, extension table, one arm and five side tapestry covered chairs.

Ladder-back Chair

$21.00

An unusually good looking chair of the New England ladder-back type. Of mahogany and gumwood, with curved rungs and rush seat. Tall back. Substantially made. A particularly good value.

Tea Cart

$24.50

The tea cart is the joy of many a household. The center of informal supper parties or afternoon teas. This one is of walnut or mahogany with gumwood, with drop leaves, and glass top tray.

THE Dream Cottage, entirely refurnished, in a modern version of the English 18th Century period, serves to illustrate the economies of this February event as applied to the modern small home. See it for its unique decorative suggestions!

A Special Opportunity in

Custom-Made Fur Coats

Now comes the chance to have a Hudson Seal (dyed muskrat) coat made in our own Fur Studios, cut to individual measure, and showing all the merits of quality and skilled workmanship for which this department is so well known—at two special prices—

$385.00 and $485.00

They may be had plain, or with collars and cuffs of contrasting fur. They will appeal to women who regard a fur coat as a staple garment, of which they demand durability in both style and quality.

We Asked a Young Woman Why She Would Buy

This Ensemble

At $27.50

. . . And This Is Her Reply

"Because it is an outfit which I can wear right now, not too bulky under my coat, and which will give a suit effect when I am indoors." (It is of flasheen, a lightweight wool, with silk blouse).

"Because the jacket is collarless, so a scarf or 'kerchief can be worn with it.

"Because the skirt is pleated clear across the front, instead of having only a cluster of tucks.

"Because the blouse is of a good, heavy silk; and because I like the tricky way it is tucked to match the jacket.

"And because of the price — it's awfully good-looking for $27.50!"

This ensemble is shown in The Sportswear Shop, in a misty, grayed green, French blue, natural or black. Misses' sizes 14 to 20.

SIFT INDIANA GIRL CLUE

That Joyous FLAVOR

Why is every drop in every bottle of this world-known condiment, Heinz Tomato Ketchup, such a rich, luscious flavor?

Because Heinz cultivates the seed, supervises the growing of the tomatoes, buys the spices where they grow, makes and ages the vinegar, selects the sugar, and guards the quality and the flavor of every ingredient. That's what makes joyous flavor in tomato ketchup.

RICH WITH JOYOUS FLAVOR

NOT FRANCES, "SMITH GIRL" INSISTS

By Universal Service.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Feb. 6.—The little village of Greenfield, 20 miles east of here, home of James Whitcomb Riley, the poet, was thrown into excitement by the report that an 18-year-old girl who came here Saturday night seeking work was the far sought Frances St. John Smith, missing heiress and Smith College student.

The girl apeared at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Temple at Greenfield and gave her name as Mrs. Beatrice Smith, 18 of Hampton, Md. She attended Sunday school with the Temples yesterday and Ernest Hiday, Sunday school superintendent at the Methodist church recognized her resemblance to the missing heiress.

Hancock county authorities spurred by the $2,000 reward offered for the finding of the missing girl have questioned her but expressed doubt that she was the missing Smith heiress.

Mrs. Smith said she came to Greenfield from Hampton, by train. She claimed to have been married to a J. P. Smith at Hampton last month. She answers descriptions of the missing Smith College girl in all respects but height and weight. Sheriff Harry Comsteck and Chief of Police John Mulvehill, of Greenfield, are investigating Mrs. Smith's story.

YEAST VIRTUES GO ON AIR

Plans for broadcasting on a more elaborate scale the virtues of yeast and raised bakery products were unfolded to 125 representatives of the Fleischmann Company at a banquet last night in the Roosevelt Hotel. Those in attendance were the company's district managers in Western Pennsylvania, Eastern Ohio and Northern West Virginia.

Speakers included R. W. Griggs of Philadelphia, divisional manager; P. S. Lord of Philadelphia, divisional sales promotion manager; T. H. Broadhead, sales promotion manager; H. C. Elste, resident divisional manager; W. J. Gough, assistant district manager; A. J. Schulze, assistant sales promotion manager; B. Rosenthal, diamalt manager, and P. P. Friday, special representative.

Details of the "yeast for health" campaign to be put before the public in 175 newspapers and 30 magazines were explained, as was the Fleischmann Company's program for better acquainting the housewife, through the baker, with the complete line of yeast-raised products. The banquet here was one of several of the same nature held throughout the country by the Fleischmann Company.

"I won't trifle with sore throat again"

"Just a sore throat, I thought—but it got worse—and laid me up for the busiest week of the season! Now, I take no chances. My policy is: Formamint, at once—and an examination by my doctor."

Physicians approve of Formamint. It releases a standard antiseptic over the whole throat. Its effect is continuous. Unlike gargles, it can be used anywhere. Needed especially in dusty, crowded places. To treat sore throat, one every hour; for prevention, one every two hours. All druggists. Keep Formamint ready.

MARTIN TO RUN FOR STATE TREASURER

HARRISBURG, Feb. 6.—(INS.)—Announcement from Washington, Pa., of Auditor General Edward Martin's candidacy for state treasurer today completed the Republican organization slate for the April primaries with the exception of the seventh place on the list of delegates-at-large.

Martin's announcement was predicated on his service in the ranks of the Republican organization and as a soldier in the World and Spanish-American wars.

Charles A. Waters, Philadelphia, secretary of labor and industry in the Fisher cabinet, last week announced himself as a candidate for Martin's present position, while Senator David A. Reed, Pittsburgh, also announced himself as a candidate for another term in the United States Senate.

Although six of the delegates-at-large to the Republican national convention virtually have been agreed upon there is some doubt as to the seventh. The choice lies between Ralph Beaver Strassburger, Norristown publisher; Joseph Grundy, Bristol; James J. Davis, Secretary of Labor in the Coolidge cabinet, and W. W. Atterbury, president of the Pennsylvania Railroad.

TO BREAK GROUND FOR MAYVIEW BUILDINGS

Ground will be broken for the new buildings at the City Hospital and Home at Mayview Thursday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, Mrs. Enoch Rauh, head of the Department of Welfare, announced today. The speakers will be Mayor Charles H. Kline, Mrs. Rauh, Councilman James F. Malone, Councilman P. J. McArdle, Dr. Samuel H. Goldenson, Dr. J. S. Hammers, Col. Eric Fisher Wood and Morris Knowles. The Rev. Dr. Carl A. Voss will pronounce the invocation and the Rev. John R. Corcoran the benediction. The first shovels of earth will be turned by the Mayor and Mrs. Rauh.

Gained 28 Pounds; A Real Man Now

That's What Thin, Rundown Atlantic City Man Wrote

There are tens of thousands of exceedingly thin men and women who need more weight and need it badly.

Most of these skinny people need better health—more vigor and energy and something more that we all strive to attain—a fresh, clean and clear complexion.

One underweight woman, exceedingly thin, gained 10 pounds in 22 days with McCoy's Tablets and doesn't have to worry any more about her figure.

Miss Alberta Rogers, thin, run down and weak, gained 15 pounds in six weeks and is thankful for McCoy's.

McCoy takes all the risk—Read this ironclad guarantee. If after taking 4 sixty cent boxes of McCoy's Tablets or 2 One Dollar boxes any thin, underweight man or woman doesn't gain at least 5 pounds and feel completely satisfied with the marked improvement in health—your druggist is authorized to return the purchase price.

The name McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Tablets has been shortened—just ask for McCoy's Tablets at May's Drug Stores, or any drug store in America.

TAXI DRIVER HELD UP, CAB STOLEN

Robbed of his taxicab, his driver's hat and $16 in Pioneer avenue early today, Fred Konrad of Steuben street was forced to walk more than a mile to the Dormont police station, where he reported his loss.

He told police he picked up a fare in Smithfield street downtown and drove to Pioneer avenue where he was robbed at the point of a revolver.

Three armed men stole the cab of Frank Rees of Arch street in Carson street, near South Twenty-second street early yesterday, leaving the driver standing in the street. The machine was found in Larkins way a short time later.

Nathan Bagriman, proprietor of a grocery store at 1628 Bedford avenue, was robbed of $45 early yesterday by a Negro who entered the place just before closing time. Bagriman was alone in the store.

Held up by two men yesterday, Samuel Robinowicz, of 216 South Evaline street, was robbed of $30 within a few feet of his own home. The men held him on the pavement while one took the money from his pockets, he told police at the Forty-third Street Police Station.

HALL BOOSTER FETE TONIGHT

County Commissioners Joseph G. Armstrong, E. V. Babcock and C. C. McGovern will be honored at the Town Hall dinner tonight in the William Penn Hotel, which is being held by civic leaders to urge the commissioners to provide funds for a public auditorium by placing the proposition before the voters in the next bond issue. The dinner will be in the form of an old town hall meeting and no reservations will be made, the guests being seated in the order of their arrival.

Many other city and county officials will be guests of honor at the banquet, it was announced by George S. Davison, chairman of the committee in charge. The speakers will be William Ganson Rose of Cleveland, Lincoln G. Dickey, manager of the Cleveland public Auditorium; A. L. Humphrey, former president of the Chamber of Commerce; Senator David A. Reed, George P. Kountz, president of the Allied Board of Trade; Mrs. Carl E. Costowsky, president of the Congress of Women's Clubs of Western Pennsylvania; J. C. Chaplin, president of Sewickley Borough Council; District Attorney Samuel H. Gardner; Frank J. Lanahan and C. Lawrence Cook, of the South Hills Country Club.

PIGEON THEFTS LAID TO BOY

The desire to give liberty to more than 100 pigeons that Felix Kushinski, of 1931 Page street, had in a cage in his back yard of his former home, resulted in Andrew Mazure, 17, of 834 Shore avenue, being arraigned in Morals Court yesterday on a charge of larceny. Following the North Side gas tank explosion, Kushinski moved from Page street to Ridge avenue, leaving the pigeons at the former address, although he continued to care for them. Mazure said he did not believe anyone was caring for the pigeons and he let them fly away. He was held for juvenile court.

MAN HURT WHEN AUTO HITS WRECKED TRUCK

Christ Weyand, of Frederick street, Mt. Oliver, was bruised and lacerated when his automobile hit a wrecked truck on the Twenty-second Street Bridge early yesterday. He was treated at the South Side Hospital. Weyand's car was one of five that figured in a series of accidents on the bridge as a result of one car going onto the pavement and stalling the others. Three drivers were arrested on reckless driving charges.

NAB CONSTABLE AFTER RAID

Accused of having attempted to stage a one-man raid without a warrant upon the Elks Club in New Kensington, Harvey J. Davis, recently elected constable at Vandergrift, is being held in $2,000 bail on charges of attempted extortion, driving an automobile while under the influence of liquor and with pointing firearms. The alleged raid took place Friday night.

Davis is charged with entering the club and with using a revolver to demand a drink from N. E. Brown, a steward, according to information made before Justice of the Peace Jenkin Howell, of Parnassus. Failing to find a drink Davis is alleged to have demanded money. He will be given a hearing Saturday.

WHEELER AT MINES

I am amazed at the unroofing of houses."

WOMEN LOYAL TO UNION

Senator Wheeler spoke of the endurance and forbearance of the strikers and their wives. "I have been surprised to find the wives of the strikers so insistent that their husbands continue the strike," he said. "I interviewed a good many and asked them if they did not want their husbands to go back to work. Invariably they replied that they would rather starve on strike than starve working for little or no wages. One woman said she would divorce her husband if he went back to work."

Contrasting conditions exist under enforcement by coal and iron police and deputy sheriffs, Senator Wheeler asserted: "It seemed to me that where the sheriff had his own deputies there was much less trouble and much less complaint, whereas where coal and iron police were there was a great deal of bitterness.

"Incidentally, one of these coal and iron policemen told me that a certain peace officer was a ringleader and if they would take him and throw him over a trestle everything would be peaceable and quiet."

Senator Wheeler said he asked one non-union miner at Coverdale how long he had been working and how much he earned. "His reply was 'Two months and I haven't made a cent, and the majority are taking down little or nothing,'" according to the Senator.

SENATORS AROUSED

Senator Wheeler predicted that other United States senators would visit the mining towns here to investigate conditions. Members of the Senate have been aroused by reports of conditions, he said, and consider the situation to be a matter of importance, not only to Pennsylvania, but to the nation as well. "Enough interest has been aroused in Washington to convince me that the Interstate Commerce Committee will consider it of sufficient importance to make a thorough and immediate investigation. This committee will go into all sides, I assure you. The miners will be heard as well as the operators."

This committee is a representative one, Senator Wheeler said, regarded as conservative but of many complexions.

"What powers does the committee have with regard to reaching a settlement of the strike?" Senator Wheeler was asked.

"The committee is limited in its powers," he replied. "It cannot force a settlement of the strike. Many ask what is the effect of an investigation. Investigations frequently result in equitable settlements. People not disposed to settle fear publicity most, and publicity arouses public opinion. After all, it is public opinion that drives people to settlement. A strike is not successful where public opinion is against the strikers, and public opinion in support of strikers is an important asset."

The McCreery Millinery Stylist Returns From Paris on S. S. Olympic

Authentic Style Information Given in an Interesting Interview

"Both the modiste and the couture showings of spring, 1928, promise a radical change in the feminine silhouette," affirms the McCreery Millinery Stylist, just from Paris on the S. S. Olympic.

Hats and Coats

"The small hat will be the early season choice, worn with the fur-collared coat. Even the small hats are decidedly different with irregular brims and unusual trims . . . The coat without fur, sponsored by Marfial et Armand and Patou, will develop the medium-brimmed hat cut in eccentric ways. The later season frock—bouffante, ruffled, pleated, quilled and two inches longer than today's American mode—will call for the large drooping hat of romantic type.

Frocks and Fabrics

"Sports frocks of wool crepe, many with blouses of metal embroidered jerseys are in vogue. Frequently they have matching ensemble coats. Dresses of satin, crepe marocain, printed chiffons and printed crepes show flares and godets. The prints vary from sombre block effects to brilliant fantasies. Colors—strong blue in a royal tone, black, sand, beige and navy.

Gloves and Shoes

"Pull-on gloves still lead and some of the newest have little straps fastening with buckles. They are of suede for dress wear and of glace kid for trotteur. One notes, during the tea hour, many short cuff modes, too. The new shoes by Perugia are of patent with brilliant steel or rhinestone buckles or of glace kid piped with gilt or silver for afternoon. Crepe de Chine slippers match evening gowns. Sports shoes are brilliant prints on linen with pastel leather trims. The one-strap is still a favorite.

Jewels and Bags

"Paton shows chic simulated pearl necklets—many combined with crystal or with turquoise or with chrysoprase. Gunmetal pearls have green or blue stone combinations. Bracelets are wide in Egyptian manner. Brooches are worn high on the left shoulder. Hand bags are flat envelopes for sports wear. Dress bags are mounted on gilt or silver frames in Grecian designs. Small pouches are preferred for afternoon.

Ensemble Idea

"The ensemble idea is dominant, madame and mademoiselle carefully choosing everything they wear from tip to toe with a view to perfect harmony.

"Of course, these new styles will have their premiere showing in Pittsburgh at McCreery's."

William Haines To Portray Newspaper Reporter In Film Under Sam Woods' Direction

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS,
Motion Picture Editor of Universal Service

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 6.

WILLIAM HAINES as a newspaper reporter! Can't you see him, the perfect type of Smart Alec who stops at nothing to get his story. There is a laugh in the very thought.

The play in which William swings a mean pencil is "Iron Mike," by Dale Van Avery. Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, with apologies to Rudyard Kipling, is calling it "He Learned About Women."

If the title hadn't betrayed comedy tendencies everyone would know it is a comedy with Sam Woods directing. Comedies are Mr. Woods' middle name these days. With "The Fair Co-Ed," starring Marion Davies, and "Latest Fashions From Paris," Norma Shearer's latest, to his credit, Mr. Woods seems to be moving right along at M. G. M.

Young Jackie Coogan is about to be swallowed up by the great wave of English production. His dad, Jackie, Senior, is leaving today for Great Britain to discuss plans for an English contract. Of course, Jackie won't make his picture until he is through school. He is now at the Urban Military Academy, and if all goes well he will sail early in June for the other side to be starred in a series of Jackie Coogan specials. Jackie is a big boy now. There is little resemblance to the baby-faced kid who so charmed the world when Charlie Chaplin introduced him to pictures via "The Kid." But the grown-up Jackie is also attractive. Every age has its compensations.

I always feel when I print a rumor I should start in an apologetic strain, yet this is a rumor that has come to me from 39 different sources. Walter Wanger, I am reliably informed, will go abroad on a very important mission. Mr. Wanger for many years was to London what S. L. Rothapfel is to New York and Sid Grauman is to Los Angeles. He was the impresario of the largest theater on the other side. Every American with a film mission consulted him. They do tell that Walter has some grand plans and for that reason he will, in all likelihood, resign from Famous Players-Lasky. That means he will not come back to Hollywood.

You wonder what Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios will be like without Irving Thalberg. It is Irving who reads stories, Irving who buys plays, Irving who assigns directors and Irving who makes decisions. Louis B. Mayer will tell you, if you care to ask him, that Irving is his right and left hand man, but Irving and his bride, Norma Shearer, sail on the Mauritania this week to spend three months in Europe. Work is laid out that far in advance. No one need discuss the foreign situation on motion pictures with Irving. He is going to pretend he never heard of a movie. His first stop is Italy, then France, England and Germany. A courier, highly recommended by Douglas Fairbanks, will accompany Mr. and Mrs. Thalberg through Europe.

Monta Bell walked right into a murder story. He no more than took off his hat, shook hands with the powers that be at Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer than he was told to get busy on "The Bellamy Trial," his next picture. That is surprising in view of the fact that everything was set for Victor Seastrom to direct this hectic melodrama. The explanation of this change is simple. They needed Mr. Seastrom to direct Jack Gilbert's next, so the change was made. At this very moment negotiations are pending for this same Gilbert next. All I could learn, and I did my best to worm out the secret is that the story is a valuable piece of literature, and if I should print it the price would go higher than Lindy's airplane. I've got to keep faith with my pals.

Not in months have I enjoyed a luncheon as much as the one I had with C. B. DeMille and Jeanie MacPherson. We ate out in the open. How is that for the last day of January. It was so warm in the sun that a coat was unnecessary. I couldn't help but think when I looked at the replica of a state reformatory, in the shadow of which the table was set, of the contrast between the grim, drab building and the green mountains in the background. To be in California in winter beats anything any poet ever wrote about May in England.

The resemblance between Dorothy Mackaill and Marion Davies is not merely a matter of a few people's opinion. At least, Dorothy Mackaill, who attended the Hickman trial this past week had no less than six people point her out as Marion Davies. Dorothy went to the trial to do a story on her impressions and it wasn't until an Associated Press reporter spoke to her and said "Miss Davies will you please pose for a picture," that Dorothy realized that she was being mistaken for Marion.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random. Owen, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's popular gateman, doing a Jack Gilbert before the newsreel camera. He lamented that he hadn't had a chance to get dressed up. Eddie Quillan, making C. B. De Mille laugh in an impromptu bit of comedy, improvised for the occasion during the direction of "The Godless Girl." Lina Basquette trying to attract the attention of an aviator who flew low over the De Mille lot. Sam Woods getting his shoes shined at the M. G. M. barbership. Edmund Goulding enthusiastically outlining an idea he plans to write for Richard Barthelmess. Wonder if he has a copyright on his scenario? That is all.

Lovelorn

MISS O'NEIL plays the girl around whom revolves the action of "The Lovelorn," film version of the Beatrice Fairfax serial which was published in The Sun-Telegraph. The picture is on the screen in Loew's Aldine this week.

WOMEN FLIERS TO GREET RUTH

By Universal Service.

CHICAGO, Feb. 6.—Unusual in the way of reception committees will be the one that will greet Ruth Elder, famous trans-Atlantic girl flier, when she arrives in Chicago next Friday.

The committee will comprise a group of prominent Detroit women—the first arerial woman's reception committee ever organized.

They will fly from Detroit to Chicago early Friday morning with Eddie Stinson, arriving at the municipail airport here in time to welcome Miss Elder and fly back to Detroit with her on the same day.

The reception committee will comprise Mrs. Bease M. Garner, chairman of the Detroit branch of the National Woman's party; Mrs. A. J. Connors, wife of Maj. Connors, president of the Detroit Flying Club, and Mrs. Isobel Hurst, president of the Twentieth Century Club.

GROCER HELD IN SHOOTING

Charged with having shot James Steel, 21, a Negro, of Penn way in the head during an argument in a grocery store at 69 Roberts street last midnight, Meyer Abelson, 32, the proprietor of the store was being held in the Center Avenue police station on a suspicious person charge. His son, Samuel, 14, also was arrested on a similar charge by police after a quantity of moonshine was found in the place, police say. Steel is in the Passavant Hospital, seriously wounded. The cause of the argument was not learned, police say.

GREEK TENOR TO SING HERE THURSDAY NIGHT

Nicholas Mullinos, Greek tenor, will appear as guest artist at a concert to be given under the auspices of the Pittsburgh Chapter of the Cefalonian's Society in the Moose Temple at 8:30 o'clock Thursday night. Mr. Mullinois has appeared on the American operatic and concert stages during the last four years. He is a member of the Philadelphia Opera Company.

SCHIPA GIVES CONCERT IN MOSQUE TONIGHT

Tito Schipa, premier lyric tenor of the Chicago Opera, will give the sixth May Beegle concert tonight in Syria Mosque. Schipa has won equal success in concert and he is one of the most popular artists on the concert stage. He will include in his program tonight a number of popular operatic arias.

Comedy Element Pronounced In Bills

"Tommy," opening in the Nixon tonight for a week's engagement, with Wednesday and Saturday matinees, is an American comedy of adolescent love. Sidney Toler heads the cast.

George Jessel, who will celebrate his one thousandth performance in "The Jazz Singer" in the Alvin tonight, where this play will remain for the week, will be the guest of honor at a number of social affairs here. He will play the Wednesday and Saturday matinees.

"Abie's Irish Rose," Anne Nichols' comedy, will begin an engagement tonight in the Pitt. There will be matinees Thursday and Saturday. It is said not a member of the cast has played not less than three years in the comedy. In it are Patricia Quinn, Phil White, Thomas McGrath, Eddie Fascal, Jack McCabe, Tei W. Gibson, Alfred Clarke and Bertha Waldron.

The musical comedy success, "Honeymoon Lane," starring Eddie Dowling, coming direct from the Knickerbocker Theater, New York, will be in the Nixon the week of February 13.

Ilse Marvenga, coming to the Alvin with "The Student Prince" next Tuesday, February 14, for a stay of five nights, with the usual Wednesday and Saturday matinees, is the original Kathie and she appeared with the company on its last visit to Pittsburgh. She has sung the role of Kathie more than 1,400 times in the last four seasons.

Film Stars Enter Real Estate Circles

Both Bebe Daniels and Richard Dix made recent plunges into the real estate field, taking time off from their activities at the Paramount studio. Miss Daniels announces that she will build two new houses at Santa Monica Beach. She will occupy one and sell the other. These new houses will bring the number of the star's houses up to five.

Dix is going out in the San Fernando Valley. He says he will erect a nine room house on a 160-acre ranch tract and will grow oranges.

Miss Daniels' latest picture, soon to be seen, is "Feel My Pulse," while Dix expects soon to parade the screen in his new comedy, "Sporting Goods."

"When I get a cough, a little REM always relieves me. I've told lots of the men at the plant about it, too". . . .
WILLIAM COX,
206 Minkner St.,
Indianapolis

Grateful users recommend REM. It clings to your throat, soothes the irritation and quickly quiets the cough. Pleasant to take and contains no opiates. It's different.

Insist on REM! Remember, its effectiveness is largely due to a special ingredient, not in ordinary cough syrups.

THERE are few manufacturing operations requiring a higher degree of skill than the refining of motor fuels and lubricants

It Pays to Know Who Made It!

You can't judge the quality of gasoline or oil by appearances . . . you have to be guided by the maker's reputation for honest value. That is why more motorists than ever before are asking for Pure Oil Brands. Confidence. Pure Oil insures the uniform goodness of its products by controlling every operation from wells to consumer. And as refining processes are improved Pure Oil betters quality.

Corns
Relief in one minute

In one minute—that's how quick you get relief from corn pain when you apply Dr. Scholl's Zino-pads. They remove the cause—friction and pressure of shoes. If applied at the first sign of irritation caused by tight shoes, they positively prevent corns.

Powerful liquids or caustic plasters often cause acid burn on the toes. Zino-pads won't harm the tenderest skin. Thin, protective, healing. At all drug, shoe and dept. stores—35c per package.

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Society Turns Attention to "Engaged" Girls as February Brides Leave on Honeymoons

NOW that all the February brides, with the exception of Ellen Stone, whose marriage will be an event of Wednesday, have departed on their wedding trips, society is turning its attention to the "engaged" girls who will soon follow in the footsteps of their sisters of February.

Forsyth Patterson, daughter of the Charles P. Pattersons, of Sewickley, seems to be the aim of the social spotlight just at present. Her engagement to David Meade Gilmore, son of the Edward D. Gilmores, of Sewickley, was announced, as you recall, just a short time ago.

Mrs. R. Raymond Freeman, Jr., will give a luncheon in her home on Linden Place, Sewickley, tomorrow for Forsyth. Forsyth, who came out a few seasons ago, is a prominent member of the local Junior League. During the recent conference she was publicity chairman.

During these February weddings I have been deeply impressed by the beauty and dignity of simple ceremonies. Katherine Deming Clapp's wedding on Saturday certainly strengthened this impression.

She married, as you know, of course, William Ayers Galbraith, of Sewickley. The marriage took place at 5:30 o'clock in the Clapp residence on Woodland road, Edgeworth, with the Rev. Henry H. Brown, of the Shields Presbyterian Church, and the Rev. Dr. Alleyne C. Howell, of St. Stephen's Episcopal Church of Sewickley, as the officiants.

Katherine wore ivory satin and an exquisite veil of rose point lace. She had but two attendants, who were flower girls. They were Marion Collin and Mary Lee Galbraith. They wore dainty little frocks of peach colored crepe de chine with demure bonnets to match and they carried Colonial bouquets.

Hanson Thomas was Mr. Galbraith's best man and only attendant. A small reception followed the wedding.

The out-of-town guests included the Charles E. Clapps of Bedford Hills, New York, and Mrs. Davenport Galbraith of Erie, an aunt of the bridegroom. Georgiana and Katherine Collin, sisters of Marion Collin, came home for the wedding. They are attending Westover School at Middlebury, Conn. They are the daughters of Mr. and Mrs. William W. Collin.

The H. H. Hitchcocks of Bartlett street are among those Pittsburghers attracted to Gotham. They have been staying at the St. Regis.

In Washington, Pa., Saturday evening occurred the marriage of Martha E. Christman, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Herbert Percy Christman, and Robert James Murray II, son of the Eugene Murrays of Sewickley. Martha wore white crepe satin with a tulle veil, and her flowers were white orchids and lilies of the valley.

The matron of honor was Mrs. Jacob Straub of Pittsburgh, wearing peach crepe and carrying roses. Mr. Murray's sister, Agnes, was maid of honor, and her frock was of orchid crepe. She carried butterfly roses. Eugene Murray, Jr., was his brother's best man and the ushers included James Straub and John Phillips. After their wedding trip, the young Murrays will be at home in Washington.

UNIVERSITY WOMEN HEAR MEMBER OF PARLIAMENT

"The problem of Europe's unity is the problem of world peace. We cannot live 'half slave and half free,' and we are now slaves to greater armament." So said Renie Smith, a member of the British House of Commons, in his talk on "The Disunited States of Europe" at the international luncheon given Saturday at the Hotel Schenley by the American Association of University Women. Going on Mr. Smith said:

"There is one important lesson to be learned—that there is no more certain way of promoting disunity than taking out an insurance policy in terms of increased arms. Europe as an experimental ground tried out the preparedness idea from 1906 to 1914, and in order to work out an insurance policy for peace had the greatest display of armament ever known in the history of the world. That 4,000,000 young men killed one another and took four and a half years in doing it constitutes a formidable argument against such a state. We are not today hearing of an Anglo-German problem. America has taken the place of Germany. Good will can not of itself promoted unity. The United States of Europe cannot be achieved without a substantial amount of co-operation on the part of the United States of America. America may remain outside the League of Nations—that is a problem for her own solving—but she should assume some kind of responsible relation toward the new political institution, the new political consciousness which Europe is trying to work out for itself."

Mr. Smith holds that this country should make clear where she stands and state whether she would hinder Europe in carrying out the League's plans for outlawing war. Mr. Smith was introduced by Dr. Irene Ferguson Davis, president of the Pittsburgh A. A. U. W., and there was a beautiful program of tenor solos by Arthur Davis, with Mrs. James H. Greene accompanying.

Mrs. Ralph W. Johnston, international relations chairman of the State Federation of Pennsylvania Women, will speak to the New Era Club at its meeting Wednesday in the Congress clubhouse. Mrs. N. L. Crow is to be leader and will have Mrs. Lida Staving as her assistant. Music will be furnished by Miss Sara M. Thornberg, with Miss Marion Davis accompanying. "Colonial day" will be observed by the club February 22 when Mrs. Edward O. Taber will direct a program of entertainment and the guest list will include presidents from other clubs. Responses are to be made by Mrs. John Howard Phillips, Pennsylvania avenue.

Miss A. Maude Royden, famous preacher and writer, who is now in the United States on the first stage of a world lecture tour, will make her only Pittsburgh appearance in Carnegie Hall tomorrow, when she will speak on "Psychology and Religion." Miss Royden's visit to Pittsburgh is sponsored by Central Branch Y. W. C. A., which also sponsored her last appearance here. Maude Royden is one of the very remarkable women of England. The graduate of an Oxford college, she began her career as a university extension lecturer, and later entered the suffrage movement, being one of the most gifted speakers and editor of a suffrage journal.

For the first opportunity of exercising her wonderful preaching gift Miss Royden was indebted to an American, the Rev. Dr. Joseph Fort Newton, sometime minister of the City Temple, the premier Congregational Church in central London, of which church Miss Royden became associate minister. Her own personal affiliation, however, is with the Church of England, and after the return of Dr. Newton to the United States she joined with Dr. Percy Dearmer in the work which she has since made entirely her own, namely, the ministry of the Guildhouse, Eccleston Square, in the West End of London, now by universal consent one of the most distinctive centers of religious thought and social effort in England.

Miss Royden has scholarship and eloquence, coupled with a personal and spiritual quality that gives to her addresses as to her books, a very special appeal. Her position as the only woman in Britain who has made an assured place for herself as the leader of the church gives her a standing and influence in the English-speaking world which is unique. Mrs. W. J. Gilmore, chairman of the committee of management of Central Branch, will preside tomorrow evening and the Rev. Dr. Percy G. Kammerer will present Miss Royden.

Montefiore Aid Society will give a valentine tea in the Y. M. and W. H. A. next Sunday afternoon with Miss Ruth Perlman and Miss Esther Levitt as hostesses. * * *

The regular meeting of the West View Forum will be held this evening at the home of Mrs. W. G. Hayward, Princeton avenue. All business will be dispensed with and the evening devoted to the annual valentine party, which is in the hands of the social committee.

The regular meeting of the Squirrel Hill Community Club will be held Friday in the Roosevelt School. Mrs. C. L. Curtl is the leader, Mrs. H. G. Stone will be the speaker and the "eyes for the blind" committee members are to be the aides.

Mrs. William R. Marshall is taking reservations for the card party which the Southern Club will give Friday afternoon in the Hotel Schenley.

Miss Bernice Storey is general chairman for the annual card party to be given by the Pittsburgh Nature Study Club on Saturday at Gimbel's. She is assisted by Mrs. Marguerite Huff, Miss Margaret Simon, Mrs. Cora Miller Frazier and Miss Elvira Hamstrom. The benefit is for a scholarship fund for the botany summer course at Na-wakwa Lodge, the club's mountain home in Forbes Forest, Westmoreland county.

The Wilkinsburg Business and Professional Women will meet in the Rosswood dining room Tuesday for dinner. This is publicity night and the publicity committee, Miss Bess Lewis, chairman, will be in charge of the meeting. The speaker is to be Gertrude K. Gordon, well-known newspaper woman. Her subject is "Celebrities I Have Known." Music will be furnished by Miss Phoebe Henshaw, pianist, and Miss Louise Jennewine, soloist. Miss Ella Vogel, state publicity director, also will be a guest.

The influences of home, school, church and community life on youth will be discussed tomorrow night at a meeting of the Colfax Parent-Teacher Association. Mrs. H. S. Daly and Mrs. Saul Lavine will consider the subject from the standpoint of the home influence, Mrs. Otilla Sheppard and Dr. G. W. Alderman, as to schools; Rabbi Goodman Rose and the Rev. Ralph W. McKenzie, the church, and J. C. Sims, community. Reports of the delegates to the state convention, Miss H. Kaufmann, Miss H. Shubin, Miss Bella Wiener and Miss Twyla McLean, will be given and music will be furnished by Mrs. Leon Hansen. Miss McLean will lead the discussion.

"Sobers Up" in Theological School; Pays

Explaining his presence in the library of the Pittsburgh Theological Seminary, 616 West North avenue, early yesterday, Charles Raymond, 25, of 521 Arch street, told Magistrate John J. Sweeney in Allegheny Police Court today that he had gone into the ministerial school to "sleep off a drunk." He was fined $25 with the option of serving 30 days in jail.

FARMER KILLED BY PROPELLER

SHARON, Pa., Feb. 6.—Charles Phenicie, 54, farmer, was killed when the whirling propeller of an airplane, which was warming up to take off from a farm, cracked his skull. Phenicie was examining the cabin of the ship when he walked into the propeller.

GREGG STATION MAN IS EXPOSURE VICTIM

The bod. of Charles Abramus, 35, of Gregg Station, was found along the tracks of the Pennsylvania Railroad near Oakdale early yesterday. Pneumonia, aggravated by exposure is said to have caused the man's death, according to a report made to the coroner. He was found by Robert Scott, of Gregg Station. Identification was made by a friend of the dead man.

He Uses Bridal Suite Alone as She Balks

CHICAGO, Feb. 6.—(AP.)—Franklin S. Hardinge, 61, furnace manufacturer, whose plans to marry Miss Ann Livingston, 30, were broken abruptly a week ago, has started on a "brideless honeymoon."

Hardinge, according to Edward De Bolt, his lawyer, sailed Saturday from New York, bound for the West Indies in a bridal suite that had been engaged before the abandonment of the nuptial plans.

"He didn't think the mere fact that he wasn't married should spoil a perfectly topping honeymoon trip on which he had planned for months," the lawyer said, "so he sailed alone."

The rift between the two was explained by Miss Livingston as being due to her refusal to sign away dower rights to Mr. Hardinge's fortune in return for $100,000, payable at his death.

ANNEXATION BEATEN IN PENN TWP.

Anti-annexationists of Penn township won a victory in Common Pleas Court today when their appeal attacking the petition for annexation to Pittsburgh was sustained by Judge Frank B. Patterson. The petition was thrown out.

The petition for annexation, which involved only a part of Penn township, was illegal in that three-fifths of the taxpayers involved had not signed, the anti-annexationists averred.

ILLEGAL JAIL TERM ENDS

Another workhouse prisoner, sentenced illegally by a city magistrate, won his freedom today by order of Judge Richard W. Martin.

Attorney Blanche Levy, counsel for John Lesh, 911 Constance street, instituted habeas corpus proceedings before Judge Martin. Lesh, it was argued, was sentenced illegally to 90 days on a suspicious person charge by Magistrate E. M. Hough. He was suspected of pulling fire boxes. He was sentenced January 14.

"PILGRIM GIRL" TO WED NEGRO

By International News Service

ROCKVILLE, Conn., Feb. 6—Undismayed over the storm of criticism that has been aroused by the plan of Beatrice Fuller, 19-year-old "blue blood" society girl and Mayflower descendant to wed Clarence Kellem, a mulatto, the principals in the "genuine love match," today completed plans for their wedding tomorrow.

"Ours is a case of love at first sight," the attractive Miss Fuller said. "I fell in love with Clarence at the very first meeting and he fell head over heels in love too. I know I'm making no mistake in marrying him."

The prospective bridegroom, who served two years in the United States Navy, was equally frank about the marriage.

"Yes, I expect to get married tomorrow," Kellem said. "No, I don't know who will perform the ceremony, or whether it will be at the bride's home or in a church."

Kellem's Negro descent is not readily apparent. At first glance he appears to be white. But when the reporter asked him if his father was a mulatto he frankly replied:

"No, he was a full-blooded Negro. My mother was white."

"She loves me and I love her. Why shouldn't we get married? I don't see why all this fuss about it."

DENY RUM TALE; MAN FREED

Roxie Nesta, proprietor of the Castle Gardens cabaret, Wylie avenue, was discharged when arraigned in Morals Court yesterday on a charge of violating the Snyder act, after two girls changed their story about getting liquor in Nesta's place. The girls, Roberta Thompson, 22, and Betta Barry, 19, both of McKee Place, were held for further investigation.

Inspector John P. Clancey, who arrested Nesta, testified that he failed to find liquor in the cabaret, although he searched the establishment from top to bottom. The girls were arrested early Saturday when one of them is said to have danced about Schenley Park scantily clad after imbibing liquor, which they said they had purchased in Castle Gardens. Their testimony resulted in the warrant being sworn out for Nesta.

CLARION PLANT TO OPEN AFTER IDLE SPELL

CLARION, Pa., Feb. 6.—Idle for several years, the East Brady Woolen Company plant is being readied for reopening.

TWO SUSPECTS ARE HELD

Patrolman Edward Pritchard, attach ' to the North Side station, and Derrill Russell, of 1524 Federal street, were reported to be recovering in North Side hospitals this mornin from stab wounds suffered, police say, at the hands of Joseph Alston, a Negro, of 1117 Franklin street, who was arreste by the patrolman followin, an alleged attack upon a North Side girl. Pritchard is in Presbyterian Hospital and Russell in Allegheny General Hospital.

Alston, according to police, attacked Bertha Burns, 18, of 1232 Warner street, Saturday night near her home. Russell was stabbed when he rushed to the girl's defense.

Alston was arrested by Pritchard and struggled with the officer, stabbing him seven times, police say, in an attempt to escape. Pritchard, weak from his wounds, protected his prisoner from a gang of men and boys who threatened to lynch him, police say.

Alston and James Fogs, 24, a Negro, of Warlo street, who is alleged to have participated in the attack upon the girl and policeman, were held for court at hearings in Morals Court yesterday.

GIVE DAY'S PROFITS TO RELIEF

East End newsboys gave their profits Friday to suffering women and children in the coal fields of this district. The boys earned $106.28 and the check shown below was presented to C. M. King, representative of the Central Relief Committee, by Joseph Santorello, treasurer of the newsies' organization.

M'GOVERN HURLS ULTIMATUM

County Commissioner Charles C. McGovern served an ultimatum on his colleagues today that if a bond issue was being contemplated this year, he, as well as the public is entitled to know now how big the issue will be and on what projects the money will be spent.

The notice was served while the county salary board was in session. Interrupting the meeting, McGovern read his demands.

"If I am to vote intelligently on a bond issue, I demand to know now what projects are being contemplated," Commissioner McGovern said. "The public also is entitled to know at this time."

He requested that every project intended be printed separately on the ballot.

"This will give the voters an opportunity to approve or reject individual projects," the Commissioner said.

Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong informed McGovern that the county has always done just as he had requested.

"Individual items and the amount of the bond issue have always been presented to the public long before election," said Armstrong.

Both commissioners became involved in a discussion on this matter when County Controller Robert G. Woodside arose to a point of order and broke it up.

"What is this, a salary board meeting or a county commissioners' meeting," the Controller asked. "We are here in the capacity as the salary board, and this matter is not germane to its duties, it is a matter for the board of commissioners."

Commissioner Armstrong concurred with the Controller and discussion ended.

ALLEGHENY ICE BREAKS

The Kiskiminetas River ice pack, broken by mild weather and Saturday night's downpour, which averaged an inch in the Kiski Valley, began flowing past Pittsburgh early today and will continue until late this afternoon, Forecaster W. S. Brotzman said. The Allegheny was three-fourths covered.

The ice jam in the Allegheny, beginning two miles above the mouth of the Kiskiminetas and extending northward for 25 miles, is still holding.

Franklin and Parkers Landing reported ice flowing for five hours yesterday, only to jam again below Parkers Landing.

A light rain predicted for tonight, with rising temperature tomorrow, may have further effect on the Allegheny river ice, although Forecaster Brotzman does not anticipate a general movement of the jam.

Captured by the Throng and Rescued by the Strategy Of Friendly Fliers

In the Sunday Sun-Telegraph yesterday Col. Lindbergh described the finish of his transatlantic flight, his impressions en route and his first sighting of land—Ireland—after leaving the American coast. When he arrived over Paris in the dark he flew around awhile to make sure he had found the right landing field. On alighting he found himself in the midst of an enormous throng of enthusiastic human beings all bent on getting as close as possible to himself.

Gratitude He Never Will Forget

By CHAS. A. LINDBERGH.

CHAPTER XXX.

WHEN the first few arrived I attempted to get them to hold the rest of the crowd back, away from the plane, but apparently no one could understand, or would have been able to conform to my request if he had.

I cut the switch to keep the propeller from killing someone, and attempted to organize an impromptu guard for the plane. The impossibility of any immediate organization became apparent and when parts of the ship began to crack from the pressure of the multitude I decided to climb out of the cockpit in order to draw the crowd away.

Speaking was impossible; no words could be heard in the uproar and nobody apparently cared to hear any. I started to climb out of the cockpit, but as soon as one foot appeared through the door I was dragged the rest of the way without assistance on my part.

For nearly half an hour I was unable to touch the ground, during which time I was ardently carried around in what seemed to be a very small area, and in every position it is possible to be in. Every one had the best of intentions but no one seemed to know just what they were.

Rescue by Strategy

The French military fliers very resourcefully took the situation in hand. A number of them mingled with the crowd; then, at a given signal, they placed my helmet on an American correspondent and cried: "Here is Lindberg." That helmet on an American was sufficient evidence. The correspondent immediately became the center of attraction, and while he was being taken protestingly to the reception committee via a rather devious route, I managed to get inside one of the hangars.

Meanwhile a second group of soldiers and police had surrounded the plane and soon placed it out of danger in another hangar.

The French ability to handle an unusual situation with speed and capability was remarkably demonstrated that night at Le Bourget.

Ambassador Herrick extended me an invitation to remain at his embassy while I was in Paris, which I gladly accepted. But grateful as I was at the time, it did not take me long to realize that a kind Providence had placed me in Ambassador Herrick's hands. The ensuing days found me in situations that I had certainly never expected to be in and in which I relied on Ambassador Herrick's sympathetic aid.

These situations were brought about by the whole-hearted welcome to me—an American—that touched me beyond any point that any words can express.

Gratitude to France

I left France with a debt of gratitude which, though I cannot repay it, I shall always remember. If the French people had been acclaiming their own gallant airmen, Nungesser and Coli, who were lost only after fearlessly departing in the face of conditions insurmountably greater than those that confronted me, their enthusiastic welcome and graciousness could not have been greater.

In Belgium as well, I was received with a warmth which reflected more than simply a passing curiosity in a trans-Atlantic flight, but which was rather a demonstration by the people of their interest in a new means of transportation which eventually would bring still closer together the new world and the old. Their welcome, too, will be a cherished memory for all time.

In England, I experienced one final unforgettable demonstration of friendship for an American. That spontaneous wonderful reception during my brief visit seemed typical of what I had always heard of the good sportsmanship of the English.

My words to all those friends in Europe are inadequate, but my feelings of appreciation are boundless.

Conclusion

When I was contemplating the flight to Paris I looked forward to making a short tour of Europe with especial regard to the various airports and aeronautical activities.

After I arrived, however, the necessity of returning to America in the near future became apparent, and, after a consultation with Ambassador Houghton, who informed me that President Coolidge was sending the cruiser Memphis to Cherbourg for my return journey to America, I flew the Spirit of St. Louis to Gosport early one morning. There it was dismantled and crated, though the courtesy of the Royal Air Force, which also placed a Woodcock pursuit plane at my disposal.

I returned to London in the Woodcock and a few days later flew to Paris in another R. A. F. machine of the same type.

I remained overnight in Paris, and early the next morning flew a French Breguet to Cherbourg, where the cruiser Memphis was waiting.

Admiral Burrage met me at the dock and after going aboard the Memphis I became acquainted with Capt. Lackey and the officers of the ship. During the trip across they extended every courtesy and did everything within their power to make the voyage a pleasant one.

Back Home

A description of my welcome back to the United States would, in itself, be sufficient to fill a larger volume than this. I am not an author by profession, and my pen could never express the gratitude which I feel towards the American people.

The voyage up the Potomac and to the Government grounds in Washington; up the Hudson River and along Broadway; over the Mississippi and to St. Louis to do justice to these occasion would require a far greater writer than myself.

Washington, New York and finally St. Louis and home. Each of these cities has left me with an impression that I shall never forget, and a debt of gratitude which I can never repay.

BEGIN DOUBLE VARE ELECTION PROBE

By International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6.—A dual senatorial investigation into the returns from Pennsylvania's 1926 senatorial election was begun today by the Reed slush fund committee and the Waterman elections sub-committee.

Representatives of the Reed committee began an examination of ballot boxes, poll lists, registration sheets and other election paraphernalia seized in Philadelphia county a year ago. At the same time, the Waterman sub-committee started a recount of the ballots seized in Allegheny county. Each committee had a representative watching the other committee's work.

The Reed committee sought evidence to support charges of fraud brought against Senator-elect William S. Vare (R.) by his Democratic opponent, William B. Wilson. The Waterman committee was concerned chiefly with determining who legally won the election and had sole charge of the counting of ballots.

The Reed committee meanwhile was preparing to plead before the United States Supreme Court for a writ of certiorari to get review of decisions in the Pennsylvania federal courts that it had no authority to seize ballots last summer during the recess of Congress.

"It is our purpose," explained Senator LaFollette (R.), of Wisconsin, member of the committee, "to get a decision from the Supreme Court fixing the status of a special committee of the Senate during a congressional recess. It has no application to the Wilson-Vare case, as we already have obtained the ballots. We simply want a definite ruling from the Supreme Court for use in the future."

SIDEWALKS OF PITTSBURGH

By HAVEY J. BOYLE

IT IS generally agreed by experts that the traffic problem in Pittsburgh, owing to narrow, winding streets without benefit of an early city plan, is one of the most difficult in a nation where the problem is generally acute.

This situation puts a tax on traffic policemen, pedestrians and motorists. We used to believe that traffic cops were needlessly rough in handling the situation, but prolonged observation, coupled with close attention to the noises the traffic policemen are subject to, leads to the impression here that when a traffic cop gives way to his emotions his nerves are responsible and not, as many suspect, a deep-seated desire to raise a four-letter word beginning with h.

THE clang of trolley bells, the deafening noise of heavy cars passing over loose switches, the screech of auto brakes, and other noises that add to the general downtown bedlam—for instance, the riveting gang on a new building—all tend to destroy at times the peaceful state of mind which the normal policeman, like any other citizen, is heir to.

Motorists and pedestrians in their natural conflict over their rights also cause the traffic police a few bad moments. When you take these natural conditions, which are hardly unavoidable, and add to them the fact that sometimes the policemen, in error, crawl out of bed on the wrong side, to find their breakfast coffee either too hot or too cool, you can readily understand how and why the traffic men explode.

THERE is a pleasant story of how the traffic cop from time to time settles matters with a fine eye to justice. Our hero—and the story is true—noticed that a burly driver with an imposing machine crashed into a tiny roadster driven by a none-too-confident lady who, however, was living up to the code. The traffic policeman in question became judge, insurance adjuster and prosecuting officer at the one and the same time.

He estimated the damage done and told the burly driver that if he did not turn over a certain amount to the lady in question that there would be an arrest. There was an immediate settlement and the whole thing passed over quietly.

THAT his position, possibly, in this case was extra-legal was offset by the fact that he had a good eye for common sense justice, administered without the law's delays.

IF TRAFFIC policemen here will realize that a motorist is caught up in the same difficulties that net them and if the motorists will make due allowances for the difficult post of the traffic policemen there will be in time less of the unsightly altercations on the downtown streets that represent a steady war between men of the same aims instead of a pleasant co-operation for the common weal.

OUR own experiences, in this connection, have been more or less sad. It was our bad luck to get into difficulties with that exceptional type who imagine there is an unholy alliance between all motorists and his Satanic majesty. Yet, such is the spirit upon us today, that we wish to forgive even those few who are as they are because their nerves lack that quality of steadiness which make many another traffic cop a pleasure to hail.

WE RECOMMEND to the Better Traffic Committee this formula to help conditions: Let each motorist pinch a policeman and let each traffic cop tickle a motorist. The discovery that the traffic cop will howl with pain and that the motorist will smile when tickled will develop the undiscovered fact that both sides of the eternal argument are quite human. With this discovery, there will be a better basis for amity.

MONEY LOVE by BEATRICE BURTON

(Chapter 1 Central Press Association)

Lily Leaves Pat and Goes Back to Her Own Home

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

LILLY LEXINGTON, spoiled daughter of the CYRUS LEXINGTONS, is engaged to marry STALEY DRUMMOND, a rich bachelor much older than herself. She is fond of him, but realizes she does not really love him the day after she accepts him, when she becomes instantly and violently infatuated with a taxicab driver whom she sees down town when she goes to meet her chum, SUE CAIN. Forgetting all about Sue, she jumps into his cab and he drives her home. She learns that his name is PAT FRANCE and that he owns his own cab in a company headed by his friend, ROY JETTERSON. She marries Pat. Lily tried, and their domestic ship sailed smoother for a few months. One day Lily met SUE CAIN, an old friend, on the street. Sue invited her to a card party. Lily, without funds, went to a store and tried to charge some clothes to her father. She was informed her mother had left word that "Mrs. Patrick France could not charge things to Mr. Lexington." Staley Drummond has been buying her clothes and furs and tries to persuade her to divorce Pat and marry him. Pat breaks his arm and Lily nurses him.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

SHE came into the room with that mincing walk of hers that always made Lily yearn to give her a good shove to make her hurry.

"Well!" she cried, in high triumph, "I said I'd get Mr. Roy to buy me some furs like the ones Lily had or know the reason why! What did you do with yours, Lil? Take them back?"

Lily nodded her head, her eyes on Pat's face. She saw the light that came into it—as if he understood at last where his wife had got those silver fox furs, and from whom.

"Yes, I took them back to the store," Lily answered, feeling the tell-tale color sweep into her face.

"I didn't come to show off my furs, however," Sadye was saying, now, in her pleasant, smiling way. "I came back with this fruit cake that Pat left in our car when we brought him home a while ago. . . . Didn't your mother say it was for Lil, Pat?" She laid a square package, all wrapped with white tissue paper and gold ribbon, down upon the table.

Then she laid two more packages down beside it.

"Roy and I thought maybe we'd ... 'er bring your presents up to ... 'night, too," she went on. ... nothing much, but we ... to have them—and we ... 'd probably be going to ... ances' for dinner tomorrow ... we wouldn't see you."

Then she laughed. She had a fresh laugh that somehow suited her wholesome, rather vulgar, freshness.

"You'll just die, Lil, when you see what I've given you," she declared, and then she told her what it was. "It's a dozen witch clothes for your silver. I noticed last time I was here that your silver wasn't real bright and shiny. Brides never do know how to keep their silver bright, and Emily Post says, in her book on etiquette—"

She got no further. Lily stopped her with a look that was withering in its scorn. "I don't care what Emily "ost says!" she snapped. "If you had any manners yourself, you wouldn't have to read books on manners. Anybody who IS anybody doesn't have to get a book on etiquette!—"

She picked up both the packages and flung them into Sadye's arms. "Now, you just take your witch cloths and skiddidle!" she cried. "You rude common creature! I've put up with you for months, and I don't know why I have! You're impossible!"

Sadye's fat, open face was white under its rouge. It quivered as if Lily had slapped it with the flat of her hand.

"Well, I may be impossible," she said, "but I'm not meeting my old sweeties on street corners and taking fox furs and American beauty roses from them—and heaven only knows what else! I'm true to my husband, no matter what I am! And that's more than you can say!"

Lily shot a look at Pat. His face had not changed. It was stony in its calm.

Sadye turned to him. "I'm sorry I have to say this in front of you, Pat. I never was one to stir up trouble," she said. "But Roy and I have known for weeks that Lil was running around with that Drummond. We knew you should have known about it, but we hated to tell you. We hated to come between you and her—"

And then she began to cry. She opened the door of the little flat and went down the stair, carrying her Christmas presents with her.

"Thank fortune I'll never have to see HER again" Lily remarked aloud, slamming the door behind her.

She was furiously angry now, and as far from tears as she had been close to them a few short minutes before.

And, still riding on the crest of that sweeping anger, she rushed into the room she had shared with Pat for so many months, and began to throw things into her two suitcases and her dressing bag.

She ran down to the janitor's suite in the basement and telephoned for a cab.

Then she telephoned her father's house. A strange voice answered her—a high, nasal, woman's voice.

"Mrs. Lexington ain't here," it said. "Neither ain't Mr. Lexington. They're both to the Hot Springs for Christmas. And who is this speakink?" That was the way it pronounced the word—"speakink."

"This is Mrs. France, Mr. Lexington's daughter," answered Lily, grandly, to show the woman how English should be spoken. "I shall be home in a very few minutes. See that my room is opened, please, and things put in order for me."

There was a pause. "I ain't never heerd of no Mrs. France," the voice said, doubtfully then.

Lily scowled. . . . How everything could go wrong at times! Even small, unimportant things like telephone conversations.

"You understood what I said to you?" she asked sharply. "I'll be home in a few minutes. See that my room upstairs is made ready! The room with the silver knocker on the door."

And she hung up the receiver before the creature in her mother's house could say anything more.

Pat was still hidden behind the paper when she went back to the flat.

He did not stir when she passed him, carrying her heavy bags. He did not look at her. He did not speak. If he knew she was there, in the room with him, he gave no sign of it.

Outside, in the quiet street, sounded the squawk of a taxicab horn and the screaming of brakes. The door-bell rang.

Lily went down the stairs and sent the man up for her luggage. She sat in the cab while he went upstairs for them, wondering if, even then, Pat would not come down and try to take her back upstairs with him.

"I wish he would," she said to herself, "I'd enjoy refusing him now!"

But he did not give her that pleasure.

A slatternly little maid in a pink house dress and pink dusting cap opened the door of the house on Montpelier road when Lily drove up to it that Christmas eve.

Her eyes were watery and her mouth hung open. She had what the smart and slangy Sue Cain would have called "a doubtful map."

"Yeh?" she said, when Lily came running up the front steps.

"I'm Mrs. France," Lily told her. "I'm afraid I'm going to have to ask you to lend me some money—two dollars for the taxi driver."

At that the little maid looked more doubtful than before. "I don't know who you are, lady," she said. "I ain't never heard Mis' Lexington mention no daughter."

Lily was exasperated. "Have you any money?" she asked. "If you have, go and get it and don't stand here talking!" She turned and beckoned to the driver to bring her bags up to the porch.

"All right," the maid decided, as if she saw that there was no use in trying to keep Lily and the bags out of the house any longer. She trotted out to the back of the house and came back with two silver dollars.

"Here you are, mom. I hope I ain't doing nothing wrong," she said.

She lifted the bags into the house and Lily sent her upstairs with them.

She followed her to the door of her old room, and saw with a pang that it was just as it had been the day she walked out of it—even to the flowered silk comforter folded in a triangle on the foot of the bed. They had kept everything in order for her!

"They knew I'd come back. . . . They knew I never would stick to Pat," she said to herself. "How much more clever they were than I was. I thought it was for good and forever—"

She turned to the maid, who was sidling out of the room.

"Don't you know you ought to unpack those bags for me?" she asked her, frowning. "How long have you been with Mrs. Lexington?" She couldn't fancy her mother having a maid like this one in her perfectly-ordered house.

"Ever since Mr. Lexington was took sick a month ago today," the girl answered, dropping down on her knees beside the bags. "No, mem, I didn't know I was supposed to open the bags. I ain't been doin' housework long. I been in a factory, but it wasn't so healthy for me. This is better—I get a lot of fresh air, beatin' rugs in the back yard and the like, you know, mem!"

Lily nodded briefly and handed her the keys to the bags.

"What's your name?" she asked, while she told herself that her parents must be very poor these days to have a creature like this slattern around the house in the position once held by the immaculate and high-priced Carrie.

"My name's Hester Belle," said the maid. "And shall I hang these dresses in the closed—along wid all the others that's in it?"

As she opened the door Lily saw that the closet was filled with her clothes, and from them came the subtle delicate odor of the Blue Star perfume that she had sprayed upon some of them months and months ago.

"Bring me that smoking suit, Hester Belle," she said to the slattern. "Yes, that's it—the embroidered pajamas and coat."

The smoking suit had been an engagement present—one of three that Sue Cain had given her last May. It was lavender and blue, and it was lined with sofe white silk.

Merely Margy, An Awfully Sweet Girl

Story by Lloyd Mayer — By John Held, Jr.

DAD YOU SHOULD BE GLAD YOU HAVEN'T HAIR!
BUT I STILL HAVE SOME, THANK YOU!
OH! I MEAN HAIR THAT'S TOO SHORT TO DO UP AND TOO LONG TO WEAR DOWN!
WHY DON'T YOU GET IT CUT?
AND LOOK LIKE A WOMAN OF FORTY FIVE?
OH! EXCUSE ME!

"My dear, the coiffEUR situation is UTterly out of conTROL at this point, no less, because I mean I had an ONdule the other day at Madame GYPP's and I think she's LOUSy—I ACtually DO! I mean I'd NEVer have WENT to her only SYLvia said she was simply MARvelous but, my dear, anybody who had HAIR like SYLvia's wouldn't care WHERE they went because I mean I think her hair looks like NOTHing HUman because, my dear, ever since she had it all cut OFF when she had treMENdous deLIRiums or something and had to wear a transforMAtion for YEARS, my dear, it's simply NEVer looked RIGHT somehow but GOsh, my dear, I wish to HEAVen I hadn't been such a SAP as to let her adVISE me where to go for a PERmanent, my dear, but I was just too TIRED of going to TintorETTI's because I mean he always tries to FLIRT with you and he offENDS me, my dear, because he's always SATurated with the VILest smelling HAIR tonic or something—you know the type! Well, ANYways, I was seeking a little GENtle SYMpathy from DADdy on the subject the other day, my dear, and WHAT do you s'pose he sugGESted? I mean it was POSitively overVERted, my dear, because he sugGESted I have it CUT! I mean I HONestly think he's got MOTHer stopped when it comes to conceiving QUAINT and old-FASHioned sort of iDEAS—I ACtually DO!"

Love's Embers

Absorbing Sequel to "Revelations of a Wife" — By Adele Garrison

Madge Deliberately Thrusts a Stick in the Witch's Caldron and Stirs the Brew

I QUAKED at my own temerity as I told Noel Verrtzen that he was giving Mary Harrison the idea that he had no other goddesses before her, and that for that reason she was likely to become interested in any other attractive young man who happened along. But the young violinist showed no resentment.

"But that is true," he said simply and a bit dejectedly. "I haven't. I fancy you have known for a long time that she is the only girl in the world for me. She was that even when—"

His voice trailed away into silence, but I could have completed his sentence for him. Even when Mary had been the mysterious masked dancer at the cabaret, and Noel had eaten his heart out at the apparent friendliness between her and Jack Leslie, whom Dickey had named the "capering cockroach," he still had enshrined her in his heart. I knew how great had been his joy in finding that his wonder girl had not been at all interested in Jack Leslie except as the intermediary who gave her a chance to dance at the nightclub, and guessed that in his abashed reaction from the doubts of her which could not have helped but creep through his mind in that hectic time, he had placed her upon too high a pedestal. He was taking the attitude of a worshiper before a shrine, when what Mary needed was a careless critical friend who would give her exactly the same sort of nonchalant affectionate comradeship which she was according him.

I put my hand over his impulsively.

"I know all about it, Noel," I said, "and any woman might be proud to have such devotion offered her. Unfortunately, however, Mary is not yet a woman. She is only a wondrously lovable but thoroughly spoiled young girl, with all a child's foolish appetite for unattainable fruit. If you wish to win her, I am very much afraid that you will have to pursue Machiavellian tactics for awhile."

He looked as startled as if I had suggested that he rob a bank and murder the watchman.

"You mean—" he stammered.

"I mean," I said with far more firmness than I was feeling, "that you must stop showing your absolute adoration for Mary. She is so used to it that she is taking it very much for granted. I do not mean that you should snub her, or anything like that, but can you not pretend a certain indifference to her?"

"She would see through it," he declared, shaking his head, and knowing Mary's keenness, I agreed with him.

"Perhaps," I assented slowly, "but there is something you can do, which she will not see through, because her eyes are already a bit blinded by a certain green-eyed monster of which our grandmothers used to talk so poetically."

He looked at me as if I suddenly had taken leave of my senses.

"You can't mean that she is jealous of me," he said. "Why! I haven't looked at any other girl—"

"True," I assented, laughing, "but another and very attractive girl has looked at you, and I can tell you, although I suppose I shouldn't, that Miss Mary is quite disturbed over it, or would be if you had sense enough to seize your cue."

Mary appeared on the veranda and came running toward us.

"I haven't time but for a word," I told him hurriedly, "but if you want to keep Mary from being interested in some other young man, I think it would be a very good thing for you to pretend an interest in Miss Lincoln."

COLDS THAT DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with twofold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

by Royal S. Copeland, M.D.
U.S. Senator from New York

Care Will Prevent Ordinary Deafness

DEAFNESS will be less common in years to come. The indirect causes of this ailment are becoming less formidable.

Of course there are several types of deafness. The nerve of hearing may not act as it should. The ending of this nerve in the complicated arrangement of the so-called "inner ear" may not be normally responsive.

DR. COPELAND

There may be imported wax in the ear canal acting as a stopper to close the passage. This shuts out the sounds, of course.

But the common cause for deafness is a catarrhal condition of of the middle ear. The cavity between the ear drum and the inner ear is the seat of trouble in most instances of reduced hearing power.

When I used to hold an ear clinic at Ann Arbor most of my records showed this diagnosis "C. M. C. C."

This means otitis media catarrhal chronica, or in the language of the natives, chronic catarrhal middle ear inflammation. This is the most frequently met of all ear conditions.

Running from the back of the nose to each middle ear is a passageway, known as the "Eustachian tube." This is at the same time the drainage canal and the ventilation pipe of that little cavity.

It is important to have free passage of air to the middle ear. In order that the air pressure on the inside of the delicate membrane, the "ear drum," may be the same as the air pressure on the outside. You know how unpleasant it is, if you go up in a rapidly moving elevator, to have the ear drums pushed inward by the air pressure. It gives you a sensation of deafness and causes you to swallow or to blow the nose. This act forces air through the Eustachian tube to the ear and restores the air balance.

The nose, the Eustachian tube and the middle ear are lined with mucous membrane. It is a continuous, unbroken membrane, possessing practically the same qualities all the way. There is always a little discharge from the nasal mucous membrane, you know. Likewise, there is moisture in the middle ear. The Eustachian tube is the drainage canal to carry this down into the nose.

All goes well with the delicate middle ear, so long as nose and Eustachian tube are normal. But if you take cold or develop chronic nasal catarrh, almost immediately the inflammation creeps up the Eustachian tube to the middle ear.

When the tissues of the nose swell up and begin to pour out a lot of mucus and "corruption," the lining of the Eustachian tube and middle ear begins to do the same thing. The swollen tube prevents free drainage and the middle ear is "stopped up" just as it would be if filled with vaseline.

If the catarrhal trouble becomes chronic, the membranes of the ear are thickened. In consequence, the ear drum does not move freely, the little bones of the ear are clogged, and the sound waves are not conducted to the inner ear. Deafness, steadily increasing deafness, is the natural result.

When we have perfect teeth, normal tonsils, and care for the nose as we should, there will be fewer nasal colds and lessened danger to the hearing. Cleanliness, pure air and sunlight help to guard against infection. That is the secret of perfect hearing to the end of life.

Silence Vital to Happiness, Says Fay King

NEVER SPEAK OR ACT IN HASTE!
WRITE THE MOST CAUSTIC LETTER YOU CAN, BUT — DON'T MAIL IT FOR THREE DAYS!
SILENCE!
MAKE SILENCE YOUR MOTTO!
FAY KING

By FAY KING

IF ALL sweethearts and young married couples would make silence their motto, how much unhappiness could be avoided!

It's that first hasty word, that thoughtless criticism, that short, sharp answer or long harangue of nagging that breaks the magic spell of perfect understanding.

Be quick to act and speak when the impulse is kind or affectionate, but strangle the words written or spoken that come in haste and thoughtlessness. They never can be retracted!

If you feel that you must express all the bitterness that you feel, sit down and write a 40-page letter of caustic resentment.

Then you will get it out of your system. But do not rush out and send that letter special delivery.

Put it away and do not mail it without re-reading for two or three days. You may be very much surprised to find that you do not feel that way about it at all, and it will be a "grand and glorious feeling" to know that it is still in your power to destroy that letter.

Choke back the words that rush so quickly to your lips when pride is injured, and a few hours' time may have changed the whole feeling in that matter. How glad you will be then that you did not say the things you meant so much to say.

Act with caution and speak with even greater caution when under the stress of injured pride and resentment.

Nothing is easier than to say what we do not mean, and nothing is harder than to prove that we did not mean it!

MEDITATIONS of a MARRIED WOMAN

by HELEN ROWLAND

THE STANDARD-RULE OF LOVE

REAL love is almost as hard to find, and as surprising when you find it as the first arbutus under the snow.

If the average man would put half the energy and brains into doing something fine, something useful or something brilliant that he puts into doing something "slick," he would be hailed as a genius.

* * *

The only drawback to a perfectly good, home-broken husband, is that he never gives a woman's imagination a chance to work, or affords her the luxury of feeling sorry for herself.

HELEN ROWLAND

What the predatory female can't understand is, that the same feminism which gave her the right to say "Let's get married, Big Boy," also gave the predatory male the right to say, "No thanks, darling!"

* * *

Nowadays, the shortest distance between two points appears to be that between a man's first kiss and his last.

The average woman is so sensitive, that she can feel her husband's eyes boring right through her new hat to the price-tag inside the lining.

The modern man's love-making has become so standardized and so mechanical, that a girl automatically reaches for an imaginary button when she wants to tune off his applesauce.

Love and war are alike in this. One conquest merely stirs up your blood and kindles your enthusiasms for another.

For the Lovelorn -:- By ELEANOR GALE

H. T. C.

DEAR MISS GALE:

There is a boy in our neighborhood whom I adore. I talk to him and we joke along. One night he took me out and tried to kiss me, but I would not let him. Since that he never takes me out any more. He takes other girls out. Dear Miss Gale, would you please advise me and tell me a way that I can get a chance to talk to him?

H. T. C.

My dear, you cannot compel friendship, you know. You were quite right in refusing to let him kiss you, and when he comes to his senses he will realize it.

Mephistophelians

DEAR MISS GALE:

As a group of girls well experienced in the ways of this modern age, we have come to the conclusion that men are impossible. They are nothing but babies and must be humored and have their way in everything. It is entirely a matter of give everything and receive nothing in dealing with them. They entice us to do things and then criticize us for doing them. They are conceited, asinine, silly and fickle. There is nothing to them. Boys criticize us for our flapper ways, yet we do exactly as they wish. We believe our philosophy of modern life authentic. Why not pet? What's a kiss? We live only once. Why not drink, smoke and be merry? We get a kick from all this and there is no harm in it. We are living our lives in the same of this generation just as our parents lived their lives in their generation. We are no worse than they. An old-fashioned girl is the bunk. You might be surprised should you happen on an old-fashioned girl at an unexpected time. We believe in acting on impulse. It is as you please when you please is the best motto for this age. You say an up-to-date girl will never get her man. How come all these unmarried? Any girl can have her man if she wants him—but who wants one? Now I ask you. Drinking, smoking, petting, we let you draw your conclusions.

MEPHISTOPHELIANS.

That is quite an indictment of men, isn't it? You must remember that youth is not all of life, however, and your theory of living as you please is not a very stable foundation for lifelong happiness.

Hopeful

DEAR MISS GALE:

I just want to write a few lines to "Disappointed." Listen here, Disappointed, I guess you're in the same boat as I am. I am a young girl 18 years old. I do not drink, smoke or neck and it seems that I cannot find one fellow who does not do these things. I didn't think such a fellow existed, until I saw your letter to Miss Gale. Don't be discouraged and keep on hoping and your ideal girl will come along. I, myself, would very much like to meet you.

"HOPEFUL."

Since your letter is addressed to one of my correspondents, I shall make no comment on it.

Hemorrhoid Sufferers

You Can End All Pile Misery Without Cutting or Salves.

Do you know why ointments do not give you quick and lasting relief?

Why cutting often fails?

Do you know the cause of piles is internal?

That there is a stagnation of blood circulation in the lower bowel?

Do you know that there is a harmless internal remedy discovered by Dr. Leonhardt and known as HEM-ROID, now sold by May Drug Co. and druggists everywhere, that is guaranteed?

HEM-ROID banishes piles by reducing the cause, by freeing blood circulation in the lower bowel. This simple home treatment has an almost unbelievable record for sure, quick and lasting relief to thousands of pile sick sufferers, and saves the needless pain and expense of an operation. There is no reason why it should not do the same for you.

Are you one of the millions who make this mistake?

Make the personal health test and see what one simple change in diet can do for you!

IT'S natural to think that the caffein you take with your meals drives away fatigue—"picks you up." Something does—and isn't caffein a stimulant?

Yes, but caffein doesn't work so fast. It's the warmth of the drink that gives you an immediate sense of comfort. The full effect of the caffein comes later—hours later. Then this drug stimulant whips up your nerves—repels sleep—drives the brain on when every natural impulse may be crying for rest.

Don't be fooled any longer! Change from caffein to Postum!

You'll get the mealtime "pick up" you want from Postum's genial warmth and zestful flavor. But afterward, when you want to rest, you can! For Postum is made of roasted whole wheat and bran—no trace of any artificial stimulant in it. Postum never robs you of sleep, never affects the nerves or causes indigestion.

Prove it—this way! Make Postum your mealtime drink for thirty days! Then see how much better you feel! Your grocer has Postum—either Instant Postum, made instantly in the cup, or Postum Cereal, prepared by boiling. Order today!

Dempsey Retires From Ring; It Doesn't Mean a Thing

By GEORGE E. PHAIR

OLD CINCINNATUS long ago
Retired to his farm,
But as he watched the onions grow,
Secure from war and harm,
He heard the Romans paging him,
And hustled back with verve and vim.

WHEN Adelina Patti went
And quit the concert hall,
It was her obvious intent
To quit for good and all,
But Adelina, it appears,
Returned and sang for 20 years.

JIM JEFFRIES tossed his mitts away
And sought the simple life,
To rest forever and a day
Far from the scene of strife,
And then Tex Rickard came along
And lured him with a siren song.

AND now Jack Dempsey passes out
And bids the ring good-bye,
But leaves a lurking smile of doubt
In many a keen old eye,
For when they hear the call of jack
They all come back, they all come back.

BUCS EXPECT TO GO TO CLEVELAND

KETCHEL IN SIANO LINEUP TONIGHT

SPORT COMMENT by JAMES J. LONG

AFTER watching baseball's annual big parade from the majors back to the minors, one is convinced by the proportions of the procession over the drab trail that Father Time has opened the exits for a greater number of familiar big league figures this winter than in any previous off-season.

WALTER JOHNSON

A glance over the list of outright releases and deals for the transfer of players to the smaller circuits, shows that more than 40 well-known big leaguers have either dropped completely out of sight or have been shipped to minor league berths for 1928.

AND the total is remarkable not only for its size, but for the number of formerly prominent major league fixtures that it includes.

Austen Lake, Boston critic, recently pointed out that the winter would be a notable one in this respect if for no other reason than it was to be marked by the passing of three such one-time super-stars as Walter Johnson, Ty Cobb and Tris Speaker.

There is a chance now that Cobb and Speaker may stay for another campaign, at least, but even at that the dropping of veterans and near-veterans since the latter part of the 1927 races has been carried to such a point as to make the period a record-breaker for fade-outs.

WALTER JOHNSON, of course, heads the list as the most prominent of those moving out of the big show into the minors, but that great star of the past, who is to pilot Newark, has plenty of company from both big leagues in hitting the down grade.

Pittsburgh let Heine Groh go to Charlotte, as manager, not to mention the discarding of Emil Yde, Mike Cvengros, Roy Spencer, Walter Mueller, and Herman Layne and the placing of Johnny Morrison on the ineligible list.

Zack Wheat.

The Cardinals sent Frank Snyder and Billy Southworth to Houston and Syracuse, respectfully, as managers, transferred Frank Gibson to a similar post in San Antonio, and shipped Johnny Mokan and Clarance Jonnard along with Snyder to Houston.

THE Braves dropped Jacques Fournier and Hugh McQuillan, both going to Newark, let Dick Rudolph go into retirement, and released George Mogridge to Rochester to take over the managerial reins.

Brooklyn released Chick Fewster, Bill Marriott, Merwin Jacobson, Mickey O'Neil and Irish Meusel.

The Giants parted company with Jack Bentley and Clarence Mueller, the Phillies said good-bye to Jack Scott as well as to Manager Stuffy McInnis, and the Reds gave Babe Pinelli a ticket to the Pacific Coast League. The Cubs discarded a dozen players but practically all of them were mere recruits.

IN THE American League many well-known figures in addition to Johnson have been released or sent to the sticks.

Zack Wheat was given his unconditional freedom by the Athletics, and Babydoll Jacobson, Joe Pate, Jim Poole and Bill Lamar were sold or traded.

The Tigers scratched Johnny Bassler and George Dauss off their roster.

Some 300 are expected to attend. A captain for next fall will be elected by the 21 letter men and Coach Elmer Layden and other notables will speak.

CLUB HEAD IGNORES LEAGUE UKASE

By JULIUS LEVIN.

IGNORING the ultimatum of the Pittsburgh and Ohio Valley League director, threatening drastic action against his club in the event he used Monk Ketchel, well-known local center, in a league game, Tony Siano, sponsor of the club bearing his name, announced this afternoon that he will use the player in question against the Reliance Life team at Columbus Temple tonight.

Siano, in obtaining Ketchel's release from the Broadway Club of the Allegheny County League, believes he has removed all obstacles that would prevent the popular South Sider from appearing in the uniform of the Sianos.

According to an announcement by the league director, referees handling the league contests have been given orders to forfeit all games in which Ketchel is a participant.

Siano is determined to win the championship of the second-half schedule, and, in view of the fact that several of his regular stars are on the injured list, he decided that Ketchel would prove a valuable asset to the team. Foley and Palamone, regular centers of the Sianos, are incapacitated as a result of injuries received in league battles.

Ketchel formerly played with the Goldensons, who withdrew from the P. & O. League rather than change their alleged foul tactics as requested by the league directors. Since then Ketchel has been playing with Broadway Club, which has just given him his release. It was understood that the J. J. Mieles, P. & O. League champions, also sought his services.

(Two points for victory, one for tie.)

NEW YORK, Feb. 6.—(AP.)—The battle of tail-enders in the National Hockey League race has been decided in favor of the lowly Chicago Black Hawks of the American contingent.

Before a scattered crowd of 7,000 in Madison Square Garden last night, the Hawks blanked the New York Americans by 6 goals to 0. Although the Americans string along at the end of the pack in the international group, they have a total of 19 points against 13 for Chicago. It was the first victory for the Hawks in about three weeks.

The Rangers head the parade for the American group clubs with a three-point advantage over the Boston sextet. The Canadiens hold sway in the International division and dominate both circuits as well with 41 points in the rankings.

Battle Royal On Card at McKeesport

And now returns the battle royal.

For years the battle royal among five or six more Negro sluggers has been off the local boards, but it is to return.

Jim McGirr, McKeesport boxing promoter, announced today that he is planning "one of those things" for the opening number of his card in the Palisades roller rink Thursday night—if he can dig up sufficient talent to make up the attraction. He already has a few of the candidates checked in and would like to hear from others who are anxious to try their fists in a free-for-all. He will give a cash prize to each contestant. Candidates should call him at McKeesport 9800 as soon as possible.

A double windup of two 10-round bouts heads the Tube City program. Tug Phillips of Fayette City will meet Tommy Milton of Toledo and formerly of Herron Hill in the final event and the other 10-rounder will be between Young Rudy of Charleroi and Jack Banty of McKeesport.

CHILLY SAUCE By CHILLY DOYLE

JOE THOMPSON and Hughey Jennings came into this life almost at the same time and they may be said to have left it together. The two sterling characters had many other things in common. Joe and Hughey desired a college education. Both were poor boys, and that meant they would have to work their way through the upper school, but each had the spirit and determination to successfully carry on.

THE ordinary college degree was not sufficient for Thompson and Jennings, who leveled their guns on the law and in the course of time they were admitted to the bar. The legal training thus acquired by the men doubtless played a part in shaping the leadership traits displayed later by this pair of democratic noblemen.

COL. JOE, aside from his valorous conduct in the front lines, his athletic achievements and his overflowing humor, was a statesman and diplomat. A fighter of renown, the Pennsylvanian was a strong advocate of peace. And Joe's tact in handling men made him stand out in efficiency and popularity among the senior officers of the A. E. F.

STARS of baseball who played with Jennings credit Hughey with rare resourcefulness in times of stress on the diamond. Off the field, Jennings, like Thompson, was a natural favorite.

In commenting on the sameness of the two characters, perhaps it is more than a co-incidence to say that Joe was born in Ireland and Hughey in Scranton.

M. A. LOOP WILL SPLIT SEASON

The Middle Atlantic Baseball League will open its 1928 campaign on May 5, will play a split season schedule and will close activities on September 3, with the first half ending July 4. This was decided upon at a meeting of the league held here Sunday. President Elmer Daley presided.

Representatives from McKeesport, Altoona and a number of other towns were in attendance and put in applications for franchises. James F. (Jim) McGuire, holder of the Cumberland franchise, who is seeking to dispose of the league berth, was given 10 additional days in which to get rid of the franchise. McGuire indicated that several Cumberland business men are still interested in having the team remain in the league, despite the bad season experienced last year.

Russell Hockenbury was re-elected secretary-treasurer of the circuit. It was also voted that each club must carry at least five recruits, and eliminate class ball players.

The following club representatives attended the meeting: Charleroi, A. S. Sickman; Jeannette, J. W. Bugher; Scottdale, S. Quay King; Wheeling, Gibson Bradfield; Johnstown, H. J. Meehan; Fairmont, Fred Doringer; Clarksburg, T. B. Cain; Cumberland, J. F. McGuire.

LOCAL ICE STARS SEE TRANSFER LIKELY

By CARL W. SHATTO.

"I THINK we will be playing in Cleveland next season, and I will be mighty glad to make the shift"—this was the sentiment voiced by about 50 per cent of the members of the Pirate hockey club Saturday night when they were sounded out by your correspondent regarding their views on the prospective transfer of the local ice aggregation at the close of the present campaign.

Although the belief that the club would be transferred seemed to be general, not all of the Bucs appeared pleased at the prospect of being transplanted. Many of the skaters said that they had become attached to Pittsburgh and that they hoped the reports that they were to be taken to some other city would prove false.

Cleveland is regarded by the Pirates as their most likely destination, and there was not one who spoke of Cleveland as other than a good hockey town. The announcement that T. W. Downes had arranged for the construction of a million-dollar arena in the Ohio city

Speaker Joins Macks

NEW YORK, Feb. 6.—(AP.)—Tris Speaker has landed with the Philadelphia Athletics.

The veteran outfielder who was released a few days ago by the Washington Senators came to terms with Connie Mack and as a result will report at the Athletics' training quarters at Fort Meyers, March 1.

Tris Speaker.

Speaker arrived in New York yesterday from a hunting trip and arranged details by telephone with Mack, who is vacationing at Mount Plymouth, Fla.

Mack's signing of Speaker fills a gap made in the Philadelphia outfield by the release of Ty Cobb and Zach Wheat. Last season "Spoke," it is understood, received a salary from the Senators ranging from $40,000 to $50,000 which price was an obstacle this year for a renewal of contract.

DECLINED CUT

Speaker declined to accept a reduction, as suggested by Clark Griffith of the Washington club.

Neither Tris nor Mack would comment on the salary arrangement.

"I'm satisfied with the terms and so is Connie," Speaker said.

Mack paid Cobb a huge sum last year, some reports quoting his services commanding as high as $60,000 which would be $10,000 under Babe Ruth's annual check from Col. Ruppert.

The addition of Speaker to the Philadelphia roster will give Mack

WHETHER or not the Slanos win the second-round championship of the Pittsburgh and Ohio Valley League depends on the outcome of their next two league battles.

Tonight the Slanos face one of their hardest tests of the season when they entertain the Reliance Life quintet on the Columbus Temple floor, while tomorrow night they are scheduled to meet the B. L. Succops at the South Side Market House.

The Slanos cannot afford to lose the decision in either battle if they hope to remain in the running for the championship. A defeat in either contest virtually means their elimination from the second half race.

In stacking up against Reliance tonight the Slanos face one of the strongest teams in the loop, although its showing in the league does not bear out this contention. The Ingram passers, however, have been suffering some tough defeats.

The Succops, the last time they engaged the Slanos at the Market House, succeeded in scoring a victory over them. They will be out to repeat tomorrow night.

ANOTHER stellar attraction in the Pittsburgh and Ohio Valley League tonight is scheduled on the Hamilton School floor where the McKees Rocks Business Men engage the strong E. P. Junkers, of McKeesport. The Junkers have not been going as well as expected by their supporters, nevertheless shape up as a formidable foe for the Rocks passers. Both teams appear to be evenly matched and indications are that a fast and hard-fought game is in store for the respective followers of the quintets.

BIBLES

The hopes of the Enoch Rauhs to reach the second-round championship of the Allegheny County League depend on the result of tomorrow's game with the Duquesne Lafayettes, first-round champions. The Bibles captured the decision in the previous game played at Columbus Temple and they are reported eager to repeat it two in a row. The game promises to develop into one of the features of the season.

The Johnstown Y. M. H. A. will be the attraction of the local Young Men's Hebrew Association next Wednesday night. The Cambria Y. M. H. A. lads have one of the best quintets in that section of the state and are expected to give a good account of themselves here. The main attraction, however, is the second battle of the year between the Goldenson Vanities and the Y. M. H. A. lassies. The Goldensons won one victory over the Bellefield lassies and the latter team is out to even the count.

The only game scheduled in the Allegheny County League tonight is at between the Goose Goslins and the Braddock American Legion at the South Side Market House. The Goslins has hit a snag after getting off to a winning start in the second round of the County League race and they are hopeful of regaining their natural stride at the expense of Braddock tonight.

The N. J. Whites are eager to book games with light first-class teams at home and abroad. Call Hemlock 8004 and ask for the manager, or write John Goode, rear 517 Carson street.

occasioned no surprise, the players pointing out that the owner of any National League franchise cannot prosper unless he also owns an ice palace with a seating capacity of several thousand.

LOCAL ARENA SMALL

The league officials, according to many Pirate players, will be glad to sanction the transfer of the Pittsburgh franchise. Even when Duquesne Garden is filled to capacity little money is made, it was pointed out, and none of the other clubs are particularly eager to play here because about the best they can hope for financially is an even break.

In handing the pace-setting New York Rangers a 4-2 defeat Saturday night the Pirate skaters made it plain that whatever city gets the Bucs is not going to draw a "lemon." The Bucs looked like champions in every department of the game, outplaying as well as outscoring their powerful foemen. Harold Cotton, who tallied the Pirates' first, three goals, appears to have achieved top form, and his great work has made the Buc attack one to be feared throughout the circuit.

The victory enabled the Pirates to advance to within two games of a play-off berth, and if they are able to triumph at Chicago on Wednesday and down the Montreal Maroons here Saturday they probably will be in a position to demand consideration when title contenders are being discussed and crowns handed out.

HEIDELBERG'S magic power in Western Pennsylvania manifested itself again very forcibly yesterday when the Green and Gold amateur champions piled up a 10-0 win over the luckless Corinthians at Cooley field. This game was the surprise packet of the day, for while local fans figured the amateur cracks would manage to win, it was figured that the final whistle would show a close score.

The second game of the American League found a much changed Pittsburgh Soccer Club battling at Curry for 90 minutes, only to lose to the Internationals by a 2 to 2 score. This might have been because Bobby Boyle was absent, Wilson filling in between the sticks in place of the famous defender.

MUSTARD HOLLOW WINS

The final game of the American League found Mustard Hollow swamping the Harmarville club by a 5 to 1 score, the Allegheny River team never proving any match for the Sicklers' outfit at any time during the game.

Buff Donnelli went on a shooting rampage at Cooley. The Heidelberg center forward is getting goals galore and he netted the ball five times yesterday. However, the Corinthians were without Benick, a star goalkeeper. Benick is a striking miner and found it necessary to stay away from that game. McKay played goal, and he had a tough time with that Green and Gold tornado.

All of the fields were ankle deep in mud after the heavy rain and stopped all attempts at scientific soccer. Heidelberg, however, seems to revel in the mud. Manager Balsarini's team impresses the fans better when the going is heavy, and its forward line seems to be able to get plenty of goals. Shooting in the mud means nothing to the Donnelli boys and with Johnny McCosky.

The game staged at Yost boulevard between National Tube and Braddock was one of these gruelling affairs that had all of the players tired out long before the end of the game. It was pathetic to watch the efforts of the players trying to drag the ball in a quagmire six inches deep, and before the game had progressed very long it had developed into one of those kick and rush affairs that weary the fans.

DOUGLAS BEATEN

Westinghouse again proved that it is invincible upon its home grounds by dusting off the Douglas eleven by a 3 to 0 score. The field on Chambers Hill is exposed, in fact it is the highest point in Allegheny county, and the wind played queer pranks with the ball.

Plenty of soccer talk will be offered the fans this evening. At 7 p. m. in the Benedum Trees Building the appeals committee of the West Penn Football Association will meet and the program shows plenty of interesting topics, including the famous Kerr case, on the list for discussion.

The powers-that-be will attend the cup committee meeting at the Boulevard of the Allies office, where other important business is to be transacted and which the fans are impatient to hear about.

The scheduled meeting of the National amateur cup committee at Cleveland yesterday was postponed by Chairman Armstrong Patterson until next Sunday, when the amateur officials will get together in the Forest City to conduct the draw for the next round, and also dispose of the Harmarville-Swissvale protest.

Speaker commented on his stay with the Senators as a most pleasant relationship and referred to Bucky Harris as one of the greatest managers in baseball.

As to his new affiliations the "Gray Eagle" said the Athletics had fine prospects and that he looked forward to playing under Mack with great satisfaction.

Asked what he thought of the approaching pennant scramble and the Yankees, Tris replied:

"Of course the Yankees are a great machine, but the Athletics and other members of the circuit are bound to furnish plenty of opposition. The Athletics were second last year and, like the other clubs, they will be out for the championship."

Speaker was born in Hubbard City, near Dallas, Tex., August 24, 1882. From the Houston club he went to the Boston Red Sox in 1907 for his first major league assignment. The Sox paid $400 for him and in 1908 sent him to Little Rock, then re-purchased him in the same year for $500. By 1909, he was a regular.

TRADED TO INDIANS

After the 1915 season he was traded to the Cleveland Indians for Thomas and Jones and a cash consideration of $55,000. In the middle of the 1919 campaign he was made manager of the Indians, succeeding Lee Fohl. It was Speaker's first experience as a player-manager and for the first and only time in his career as a regular player for about 20 years, his batting average slumped below the .300 mark. His average for 1919 was .296.

In 1920 Speaker made a big comeback and enjoyed one of his best seasons, batting .388 in the dash of the Cleveland club to an American League pennant and a world's championship after a series with the Brooklyn Robins. Tris exceeded his 1920 average with the Indians in 1925 with a mark of .389.

After the 1926 campaign, Speaker resigned from the Indians and joined the Senators with whom he played in 142 games for a batting average of .327.

Speaker has played in three world series, two as a member of the Red Sox, in 1912 and 1915, and the other with the Indians.

were cast aside by the Senators.

The Yankees handed dismissals to Bob Shawkey and Dutch Ruether.

The Browns set adrift Ernie Wingard, the Redsox slipped the leash for Johnny Tobin, and the Indians, besides unseating Manager Jack McAlister, sold Walter Lutzke to Newark.

Truly, many a familiar face will be missing when the big league pennant races of 1928 get under way nine weeks from next Wednesday.

THE weakness of being a late starter has prevented Outfielder Herman Layne from getting a real tryout in the major leagues.

Herman Layne.

The Pittsburgh club has just sent him back to the minors again, releasing him outright to Indianapolis in the American Association, all because his showing here last spring did not, in the opinion of the management, warrant any further time being wasted with him on the coming training trip.

Layne's performances as a Pirate last year were disappointing. He was bought for $30,000 from Toronto in the International League, where he in 1926 batted .350, stole 32 bases and scored 107 runs, and good judges predicted certain success for him in the fast set.

BUT Layne fell so far short of finding his stride that he was released May 31, being repurchased in the fall. He played only two games in the outfield for the Bucs, and was in only nine other contests as pinch-hitter or pinch-runner. He was at bat six times, and failed to make a hit, though he scored three runs.

It is said that he is a slow starter and cannot get going until the hot months arrive, but Manager Bush wants to win games in the spring as well as in the summer and figured that it would be useless to experiment any further with Herman this year, when he must find a regular for a vacant outfield post before the beginning of the championship season.

PITTSBURGH followers of harness-racing who saw some bad spills when Grand Circuit meetings were held on the Brunots Island track, and who recall mishaps in other cities in which even such experienced drivers as Pop Geers and others were severly injured several years ago, will concur in a statement made by Tommy Murphy, who has quit the harness game after 37 years to train the running stable of Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney.

"HARNESS racing is more dangerous than riding racehorses," Murphy said. "If there is an accident among the runners, and a jockey is thrown, a horse instinctively tries to avoid stepping on him. He will either swerve from a prostrate man or try to step over him.

Pop Geers.

"But when driving a trotter or pacer there is always the danger of a horse catching his hoof in the spokes of the wheels. Then over you go. Soon there are two or three horses piled upon the track. Even if the horse escapes stepping on you, you are in line with the wheels of the sulky rolling over or crashing on top of you. That is the reason I was willing to quit the sulky."

JIM FITZSIMMONS, veteran turf trainer, believes he has found a way to keep the horse-racing game from being at the mercy of Earl Sande, who is likely to be reinstated this year, La Verne Fator, and three or four other outstanding jockeys who win the great majority of the races in which they compete.

Fitzsimmons would give the apprentice riders more of a chance by allowing them a greater weight allowance. At present an apprentice is allowed only five pounds until he has ridden 40 winners, after which his allowance ends.

UNDER this system, the crack riders have too great an advantage, Fitzsimmons asserts. He considers five pounds insufficient to give the less experienced riders a real chance, and suggests that the allowance be increased so that it range from 5 to 15 pounds, according the number of winners the apprentice has ridden. He believes it would make the races more open, assures closer going, and smash the monopoly of half a dozen star riders.

Earl Sande.

"There is not a jockey in the country — and this goes for Sande, Fator and all others—who can concede an apprentice boy 15 pounds and beat him home," Fitzsimmons is quoted.

FIGHT

a brisk walk and went through some calisthenics.

HAS FOUGHT THE BEST

Although he has been in the ring on and off almost 18 years, Levinsky has boxed here only twice before, the first time 'way back in 1912, against Eddie McCoorty, the clever Oshkosh, Wis., middleweight, in Old City Hall, and the second time against the late Harry Greb at Forbes Field, in 1919. He was booked here against Emmett Rocco of Ellwood City more than a month ago, but had to call off that match because of an injured eye.

The Battler is a colorful ringster. Never a hard hitter, he has specialized in outboxing and outspeeding his opponents. He never dodged any of them and includes in his record bouts with Jack Dempsey, former heavyweight champion; Gene Tunney, the present titleholder; Harry Greb, a double champion; Georges Carpentier, former world light-heavyweight champion; Jack Dillon, the Hoosier Bearcat, and many other notables. He attracted widespread attention for the frequency with which he appeared in engagements at the height of his career, even outdoing Greb in this respect. He established a record of 59 battles in one year, which is more than many of the famous figures of the sport have indulged in during their entire careers. The chances are this mark never will be equaled, what with the rules of boxing commissions these days which stipulate certain rest periods between bouts.

SKILL VS. YOUTH

Levinsky retired several years ago, but decided to return to the ring more than a year ago and has shown surprising form, defeating a number of young and ambitious opponents. He is confident he will be able to beat Seifert on the boxing knowledge that is stored in his brain, and in this respect the battle promises to be interesting. It always is a treat to see a master boxer of bygone days pit his wits against a rugged youngster.

For instance—Mike McTigue vs. Leo Lomski.

That's the sort of a duel we'll have at Motor Square tonight, and, although Seifert is the home lad, the chances are the natural sporting sympathies of the crowd will be with the "old man" to triumph.

SEMI-FINAL GRUDGE FIGHT

For real fireworks, the semi-final tonight promises to put the main bout in the shade. Garfield Johnson, recently of Seattle, but now of Pittsburgh, and Reed Crutchfield, venerable local fist-flinger, both of a dusky hue, have a little bit of a grudge to settle. Crutchy resented the coming here of Johnson and the usurping of his place in the Hill limelight just at a time when Crutchy was beginning to make some headway and he challenged Garfield to combat. The latter spurned him and that rankled. Then Garfield met a reverse at the fists of the cagy Maxie Rosenbloom and was taken down a peg and condescended to battle Crutchy. Meanwhile he took on Frankie Monahan of Butte, Mont., at McKeesport last Thursday night and was on his way to a clean-cut victory when he accidently fouled Monahan. He showed good form up to the untimely ending, and tonight he'll be out to get Crutchy no less than Crutchy will be out to get him. And the whole Hill will be out to get an eyeful of both.

Nick Susnell, socking welterweight of Rochester, Pa., who always gives the crowd a run for its money, will mingle with Jack Katkish of Lawrenceville in the second bout, and, in the first number, Jimmy Belmont of Braddock promises to do more fighting and less posing against Jimmy Powers of Clairton and formerly of the Navy than he did against Harry Taylor of the North Side in his last appearance at Motor Square.

GOLDSTEIN AT NEWARK

Phil Goldstein of the Hill boxes Al Bryant at Newark, N. J., tonight. Rene DeVos and Geo. Courtney mix at the Arena in Philadelphia. Other battles listed include: Cuddy DeMarco vs. Johnny Mellow at Detroit, Frankie Genaro vs. Frenchy Belanger at Toronto, Stanley Simmons vs. Jack O'Connell at New Castle, Pete Latzo vs. Maxie Rosenbloom at Wilkes-Barre, Pa., and George Gemas vs. Joe Sekyra at one of the New York clubs.

HILL TOP Y WINS

CANTON, O., Feb. 6.—The Hill Top "Y" team of Pittsburgh defeated the Canton Railroad "Y" team here Saturday night, 32 to 29.

Public Spirit Making San Francisco What It Is.

By B. C. FORBES

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 6.

SAN FRANCISCO is the Far West's citadel of culture, of art, of music, of beauty, of the finer things of life. It may not be breaking records in industrial expansion, in commercial growth, in population increase, though in all these it shows healthy progress. But it enjoys leadership in these other phases of life, in its cultural atmosphere.

San Francisco is what it is largely because of the splendid public-spiritedness of numbers of its citizens, past and present. Their activities, their example, may prove an inspiration for citizens of other cities heretofore less benefited by disinterested public services.

SAN FRANCISCO'S Mayor, James Rolph, Jr., has been in office for fully 16 years and will have completed 20 years' service when his present term expires, an impressive testimony to his popularity. He attributes no little part of his administration's success to the ready, cordial, painstaking co-operation of busy, brainy men of large affairs.

Also, the city owes some of its wonderful public buildings, museums, parks, swimming pools, aquariums, etc., to the mayor's constant exhortation to wealthy citizens that the best monument they can leave behind them is not multiple millions of dollars, but some useful, worthy, beautiful contribution to the city's public possessions, public attractions.

HONOR where honor is due. I have induced Mayor Rolph and several other leaders to single out for me the names of those who today are rendering conspicuously valuable service to their city and its people, including the children.

Business and financial giants often complain that they hesitate to get into any kind of civic or political activity lest they draw down on their heads criticism and all manner of unpleasantness based on partisanship, jealousy and the like. Republics traditionally are ungrateful. But that is no reason why cities should be.

When outstandingly able men do give of their time, vitality and money to disinterested public service, should not the people of the community gladly accord them a meed of recognition? Why wait until they are dead, when it is too late to make amends?

SAN FRANCISCO'S proudest possessions probably are its delightful parks. The head of the park commission is the city's busiest banker, Herbert Fleishhacker. Yet he gives two hours of his time daily to his park and other civic duties. He also contributed handsomely to the Fleishhacker pool—the heaven—of children.

Whenever an important and difficult problem is tackled, one of the first men enrolled is Paul Shoup, the next-in-line for the presidency of the Southern Pacific Railway, a quiet, cultured citizen who functions as smoothly and effectively as a powerful, well-oiled piston.

When Senator James D. Phelan retired he was induced by the Mayor to become president of the Playground Commission, an office to which he gives careful attention.

Theodore J. Roche devotes much time to filling capably the presidency of the police commission.

WHERE is space to give only the names of others who are recognized as foremost among those striving conscientiously for the betterment of the Golden Gate City: Selah Chamberlain, William F. Humphrey, Philip J. Fay, Colbert Coldwell, William H. Crocker, Robert Dollar, Clay Miller, Wallace M. Alexander, Athol McBean, William Shoup, J. H. McCallum, Marshall Hale, Fred J. Koster, George Filmer, William A. Sherman, William Sproule, Curtis H. Lindley and, by common consent, one woman, Katherine Felton.

WHAT are you doing for the benefit or betterment of your city?

PROFIT TAKING CUT STOCK ADVANCES

NEW YORK, Feb. 6.—(AP.)—The stock market today lacked uniformity after a strong forward movement in the morning had spent much of its force. Profit taking in some issues which recently have advanced sharply, and a growth of selling or both accounts reduced a number of earlier gains of 3 to 6 points shortly after noon. Banks called about $10,600,000 in loans.

Confidence in the business outlook, reinforced by a statement of Secretary Hoover that he saw nothing distressing in the business situation, had impelled active buying in the early hours, particularly in the steel, public utility, copper and miscellaneous groups. The extraordinary interest in Vanadium Steel, which has advanced about 20 points in the past week or so, was reflected in an increased inquiry for other independent steel shares, particularly Midland Steel Products preferred, Sloss-Sheffield and Bethlehem, which registered gains of 2 to 5 points.

Pool operations were prosecuted in many quarters in the morning, but were considerably modified when the market began to reflect the increased volume of sales for both accounts shortly after mid-day.

Railroads were somewhat sluggish and there was some pressure against such industrials as the sugar shares, attributed to unfavorable trade news. Erie, Norfolk and Western, Delaware and Hudson and Canadian Pacific were the heaviest among the carriers, with losses of 2 to 3 points, and there was effective pressure at intervals against General Railway Signal, Greene-Cananea Copper and some of the rubber shares.

CHICAGO BOARD

CHICAGO, Feb. 6.—Good rains in parts of Oklahoma, Kansas and Nebraska, together with lower Liverpool quotations than expected, gave an early setback today to wheat prices here. Corn was influenced by unfavorable weather for the crop movement and by persistent talk of export business. Opening ½c to 1c off, Chicago wheat afterward surged a little more. Corn started unchanged to ⅛c up and subsequently held near to the initial range. Oats were easy. Provisions went downgrade.

At noon wheat was ⅝c to 1c net lower, and corn down ⅜c to ½c.

More optimism in regards to the crop outlook for domestic winter wheat was encouraged today by word of liberal moisture supplies southwest and west tending to banish drought damage fears. In addition, unexpected downturns in wheat quotations at Liverpool were associated with an increase of the amount of wheat on ocean passage, making the total at present exceed both that of last week and a year ago. British millers were reported as continuing to refrain from buying.

Representing the bullish effect of adverse conditions reported today for the corn crop movement were indications that enlarged purchases of corn for export had been made overnight. Some estimates put the aggregate at 600,000 bushels. Besides, it was pointed out that corn is now the cheapest ingredient for use in mixed feeds available for poultry and for dairy cattle and other live stock.

The following quotations on the Chicago Board of Trade are reported by A. E. Masten & Co.:

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

Dear Editor:
I took a $10 mail course on "Think Quickly—Don't Be a Dub!" Imagine my embarrassment after the first lesson when my wife asked me for money for coal and my stenographer inquired, "Do we eat at the Ritz today, Bunny?" I got all confused and answered my wife, "Sure, Cutie," and told my stenographer to "Shut up." I try so hard not to make mistakes, but I honestly believe that people that just don't care get along best in this old world.

PEERLESS WOMAN
(From San Francisco Paper.)
"Without so much as a word, Mrs. Glanville related the facts to her husband."

"You Said It, Marceline!"

By MARCELINE d'ALROY

ON "LET'S HOPE NOT"

It's a fact that when a
WOMAN has had a STRENUOUS,
Busy or successful day in
The BUSINESS world,
She does not feel like
Going home and PLAYING the Part of a pretty PUSSY cat
For a perfectly ordinary TOM,
Dick or Harry. The woman who is Prepared to PURR prettily when
CARESSED, and figuratively wind
Herself ingratiatingly around
The neck of an errant MALE
Is rapidly becoming RARER,
But apparently all HUSBANDS
Are Optimists. To START with,
Anyway. Even so, more CREAM is Being provided for the LADY CAT
Of the home by her hard-
Working TOM than ever before,
Gone is the time when the WIFE got the skim milk and
Some tabby outside the CREAM.
WIVES, whether they work or not,
Get the BEST end of the Bargain these days, at least in
This COUNTRY. And probably the
Time will come when working WOMEN
Will seek in their HUSBANDS what
Husbands once SOUGHT in wives—
SWEETNESS, pliancy and uncomplaining
DEVOTION. But let's hope NOT!

THIS WAGGISH WORLD by Roy K. Moulton

HAVE YOU A BABOON IN YOUR HOME?

THE great Baboon controversy is on, and the whiskers of the scientists are bristling with the urge of battle. The biggest guns in science are being fired for and against the theory promulgated by Dr. Lindemann, eminent savant of Oxford, that in 20 years housework, taxicab driving, elevator operating, ticket-taking, street car conductoring, noon luncheon speaking and vers libre writing will be done by baboons. The baboons will settle several servant problems.

THE latest indigant scientist to enter the lists is Dr. Adolph Schulte of Johns Hopkins, who declared the idea that baboons will do the housekeeping of the future is absurd. He took a baboon to raise scientifically and could make nothing of him at all but a baboon. He was bad-natured and at any moment might have burned the house down. That shows how popular housework is.

Baboons, says Dr. Schulte, will never take the place of the housewife and allow her to spend her time at the bridge club. Well, we don't blame the baboons. They seem to have a little sense, even at that.

MEN have taken great liberties with animals of the monkey tribe for many years. They do not respect the ape's right to an individuality or to independent ambitions. But it would seem that about the last straw would be to turn the baboons into taxicab drivers, although stranger things have happened. Why some of them even now are driv—, but never mind. No matter, no matter.

We imagine they might write very good vers libre. In fact, that part of the scientists's program seems perfectly reasonable. We have not read any free verse in several years that has not led us to imagine that it might have been inspired by a crude jungle intelligence.

Another field in which they should do real well is that of professional dancing partners for fat dowagers in the night clubs. We have not learned whether a baboon can put a patent leather polish on his hair and can talk baby-talk to adolescent, middle-aged ladies who are fighting a losing battle with time. We must look into the matter.

It has never been the fortune of this writer to encounter any educated baboons serving soda water at drug store fountains.

THE opposition scientists say that baboons grow ill-natured and snappy when forced to do housework. That only goes to show how human they really are. We have seen some ladies who acted exactly that way when they had to chauffeur a carpet sweeper or stay home and get dinner for the old man.

Housework is a phase of our civilization that went out of style along with high-wheel bicycles, bustles and wax flowers in the parlor. If there is anything that everybody hates, it is housework. Why is there any reason to believe the baboons will like it? They are not so dumb.

Up in Connecticut last summer we found a tombstone dated 1813. The epitaph read:

"Here lies the body
Of Angeline Snook,
A noble housekeeper
And a first-class cook."

Mrs. Snook, we believe, was the last woman to take any marked interest in housework.

Public Interest vs. the Big Mine Strike

This mine strike has been a succession of broken pledges, blunders, Bolshevist activity, riots and general misery. Bloodshed soon may be included. The chief victim has not been either of the warring parties, but the public.

Now the operators say they have the striking miners "licked."

If that were true the mine owners could do nothing that would help more to restore public confidence in them, and to wipe out the memory of their mistakes, than to consent to a settlement, or an armistice, that would be generous to their foes.

This is not said in the interest of the strikers—but for the suffering public, for general business, for the community life.

For after all the public is boss of operator and miner. The railroads found out about that.

In a democracy, the public interest will eventually and irresistibly assert itself.

Goodby, Blacksmith!

Good-by Your Spreading Chestnut Tree,

Under the spreading chestnut tree the village smithy stands—no longer. The blacksmith shop in the village has been changed into a garage, automobile service and gasoline station. The blacksmith's son, instead of a leather apron, wears a white suit of clothes, carries a wrench, and advertises "free air."

The blacksmith's brawny arms have been put out of business by machinery that would make the blacksmith seem smaller and feebler than a tiny gnat.

The ancient buggy and wagon were made originally in the blacksmith shop. The village blacksmith was also the village wheelwright. He might turn out one whole wagon in the course of a winter. Then big factories took the place of the wheelwright. Now automobile factories have done away with most of the wagons and all the buggies. Concerning one modern automobile factory you read this: "There are metal spinning machines in which hot metal discs are whirled into shape, almost like clay on a potter's wheel. There is a pair of metal pressers weighing 240 tons each, and other pressers weighing almost as much. One blow from a gigantic hammer will do more than ten thousand blows from the village blacksmith with his brawny arms."

The day of individual work is gone, the day of big combination work has come. Labor is made less interesting when each man does only a PART and nobody finishes anything from beginning to end.

The shoemaker no longer makes a pair of shoes. He taps one part—a heel, welt or something else. The automobile mechanic turns one screw on a machine, or attaches one piece to it. He has nothing to do with making the WHOLE automobile.

Men worry about the good old days, but they needn't. Machinery which takes the place of ten thousand men will eventually give freedom to all men. Already the hours of labor are shorter, days of work are fewer, pay is higher and living more luxurious.

The village blacksmith worked at least twelve hours a day. Today's mechanic works eight hours at the most, sometimes only five days a week, and he makes more than twice as much as the blacksmith made.

The village blacksmith had no bathtub, no radio, no automobile, no talking machine for his children's dancing.

The successful modern mechanic has all this. And that's only the beginning.

Eventually the day's work will be cut to four hours; that's a long way off, but it will come. So will the week of FOUR working days.

Men worth while will not be idle; they will do different things, have "variety in occupation," which the mind craves.

The man who cannot make a whole automobile or a whole pair of shoes will be able to build his own chicken coop in his own time, if he wants to, from roof to ground. Or he will be able to paint a picture, or write a poem, or set his hens, collect his eggs, hatch out the chickens. That will satisfy his craving to do "a complete job."

Don't worry for the good old days. They were old, but they were NOT so good.

A Bill to Be Enacted

The Alien Property Bill has passed the House by the overwhelming vote of 223 to 26. It should promptly pass the Senate.

Of course the Germans are no longer alien enemies. Under the American conception of private property, there is no respectable reason why the private American property of German citizens, seized during the war, should be longer retained.

The United States is particularly concerned with maintaining the integrity of private property in foreign countries. Our foreign investments, including war debts, government loans, investment in foreign plants, etc., amount to something like 27 billion dollars. In our own interest we should be unwilling to prejudice the rights of private property abroad by failing to respect them at home.

The Hearst Papers Advocate:

1. An agreement of English-speaking peoples to preserve peace among themselves and to promote the peace of the world.
2. Proportional representation in the United States Senate, no state to have less than two Senators. Legislation to enforce prompt constitutional reapportionment in the House of Representatives.
3. A separate Department of the Army, of the Navy and of the Air Forces, all united under a Secretary of National Defense.
4. Federal action to the limit of Federal powers to abolish illiteracy in the United States under a Secretary of Education.
5. Election of Congress in November. Installation on the 1st of January following. Inauguration of the President 1st of January next after November election.

Garrett P. Serviss Says:

What Forests Do

OF GREAT interest to thoughtful Americans, regardful of the future of their country and desiring to understand the natural influences which affect that future, is a pamphlet just issued by the forest service of the Department of Agriculture on "Forests and Water in the Light of Scientific Investigation," prepared by Raphael Zon, director of the Lake States Forest Experiment Station.

The earth still contains enormous forests that remain as yet virtually untouched by man, such as the great Amazonian tree-world that forms the wonderful stage-setting for W. H. Hudson's fascinating romance "Green Mansions;" and the vast forested tracts of Africa and Siberia. But around the principal centers of industrial civilization the destruction of forests has gone so far that the possible effects upon agricultural and other interests have to be studied. Read the vivid descriptions in Cooper's "Leatherstocking Tales" of the former aspect of New York State, when almost the whole country, hill and valley alike, was canopied with an unending forest so that, when viewed from some elevation, it resembled an "ocean of leaves," beneath whose surface lurked panthers and bears, and beavers and deer, as fearless of disturbance in their element as whales and porpoises in the sea of waters; and contrast that with the aspect of the city-crowded Empire State today.

No one would care to have New York go back to the wilderness again, but on the other hand, no one would wish to see the destruction of the forests carried everywhere so far as to produce a condition inimical to the productiveness of the land. This subject includes the stripping off of the soil of hillsides, the desiccation of bared areas, the drying up of springs, the exhaustion of streams and rivers, and the stimulation of conditions favorable to sudden and disastrous floods.

Mr. Zon shows how easy it may be to draw mistaken conclusions concerning the effects of forest denudation by applying identical deductions to all places without regard to the differences of local conditions. "The effect of forest on stream flow is different in different climates." It varies also with the geological formation, topography, size of watershed and depth and character of soil, and many other circumstances. One of the most humanly interesting relations of forests is that connecting them with the life of springs. Under this head we find such things as this:

"Near the little village of Orgelet (Jura) there is a spring at the foot of the east slope of Orgier Mountain, called the fountain of Plaisia, which disappeared during the entire time that the mountain remained cleared of its forests (from the end of the eighteenth century to the middle of the nineteenth) and reappeared thirty years ago, when the work of reforesting the slope had been finished"—a germ for a story suited to the delicate fancy of the author of "Undine."

Here is what Mr. Zon has to say of the connection of forests with floods: "High floods are caused in navigable rivers either by excessively heavy or by long-continued rains. During the first hours of heavy rainfall, and often during the precipitation which may precede it, the forest floor becomes so completely saturated with water that it allows any further rain to pass off just as it would from open ground. The influence of the forest on the prevention of catastrophies from high water and floods is therefore limited. The forest can prevent smaller floods by retaining a certain amount of water and retarding its flow, but it is powerless to prevent greater ones. The latter are the result usually of either a large quantity of rain falling on frozen or saturated ground, covered with snow, especially in late winter, or an unusual amount of rainfall, even for a short period, in the territory drained."

More Safety With Radio

TRAIN signaling by radiophone, successfully tested on the New York Central the other day, promises a valuable addition to means of insuring safety on the rail.

It need not displace any of the familiar methods of signaling, but should supplement them, thus increasing the chances of coping with human fallibility.

Indeed, we may soon expect each train, freight and passenger, to be thus equipped. For safety is quite as important on land as on the sea.

Once Overs

By J. J. MUNDY

Song in the Heart

IF YOU cannot sing you are unfortunate; but with happiness in your heart, a happiness that makes you want to sing, you have no just reason for complaint.

The song in the heart makes happiness in the world.

Perhaps though, you are unhappy because your desires are for things that good sense tell you, you cannot hope to possess.

The limits to which most of us may go, do not carry us very near to the faraway goal we have established.

True, we should not give up too easily.

But we should use sense in deciding upon the point of our ambition.

To fail to get pleasure out of simple gains because we are below the standard sought is not good sense.

Know your limitations to the point that you are not made unhappy because you cannot procure what is beyond your ability to obtain.

Set your stakes high, but know what is required to reach the goal before you decide upon something impossible to accomplish.

Tales That Are Told

Aberdeen Again!

ON AN Aberdeenshire moor a sportsman got lost in the darkness. At last, when he was soaked to the skin, he perceived through the gloom the light of a cottage. He made his way to the door and knocked.

"Ah, my good man," he said to the crofter, "I've got lost, and I'm so wet I believe I have a chill coming on. Do you think you could let me have a little whisky?"

An agonized expression crossed the Scot's face as he asked, "About how little would you be wantin'?"—London Tid-Bits.

Peter's Idea

PETER was playing at Johnny's house. When it was time to go home, it started to rain. Mrs. White, however, gave Peter Johnny's raincoat and goloshes.

"Don't take so much trouble, Mrs. White," said Peter, politely.

"I'm sure your mother would do as much for Johnny," she replied.

"My mother would do more," said Peter. "She'd ask Johnny to stay to supper."

A British Crack

AN American girl, about to visit England, was recommended by a friend to see Lincoln Cathedral.

"Oh, indeed," said the girl. "Is there a Lincoln Cathedral in England?"

"There is, and a superb building, too."

"Say now," exclaimed the girl. "Wasn't it just too sweet of them to name it after our Abe!"—Birmingham Gazette.

WHEN IT'S happened to me,

I'VE SAID to myself,
* * *
I'D WRITE about it,
* * *
AND THEN at my

I'D SIT myself down,
* * *
TO GO to work,
AND THE big idea,
I THOUGHT I had,
* * *
WOULD GROW very small,
* * *
AND UNIMPORTANT,

TO FILL a column,

"WHO'LL HAVE an

WAS THAT same old

IS THAT I think,

THEY DON'T like to peel them,

WITH MOST every thing,

DO ALL the peeling,

New York Day by Day

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Feb. 6.—Diary of a modern Pepys: Early to the barber to be trimmed and W. R. Hearst in the next chair and I was tempted to say, "Mr. Hearst, I write for some of your magazines and newspapers," but wondered what in the world I would do if he replied, "What of it?" so kept my tongue.

Albeit one of the nicest compliments I ever received came from him. Then to call on C. L. Edson from Arkansas, and found him as engaging as ever and think his "The Great American Ass" as honest a book as ever written. Walked in the teeming East Side and home to my labors.

In the evening to dinner, where came Hewitt Howland, editor of Century, and his wife, and Irvin Cobb related some of the hilarious impersonations that Charlie Chaplin does. So to bed.

She is one of the former toasts of Broadway; now the proverbial crumb on Tenth avenue. Booze and dope. Her husband, a sterling fellow, spent thousands on cures here and abroad. Unable to live with her, he provided apartments which she would strip and pawn to satisfy her craving. At last he gave it up as hopeless. Today she is one of those miserable outcasts who stand in front of theaters holding forth packets of gum. The man who tells me the story says not a day passes the husband does not receive a postcard scrawl, telling of her love.

I am told of another strange and undying love of a woman whose name is well known in a certain profession. Twenty years ago she separated from her husband and each married again. She prospered, he did not. Ten years ago he was offered an inconsequential post in a mercantile establishment. His actual salary is $2,000 a year, but he receives $12,000 and he does not know that $10,000 of it comes secretly from her.

Bell boys in flashy luncheon places now have a fixed charge for those young blades who desire to have themselves paged during the progress of their meal to give them an air of worldly importance. It costs a dollar, but as an added attraction the bell hop will say, so others may hear, that Mr. Ziegfeld, Col. Lindbergh, or some other person with a prominent name desires to speak to them on the telephone.

A neat conceit, too, is practiced by young ladies as a sop to their vanity. They save florists' boxes, and when a young man calls they wish particularly to impress they have the maid bring them to the door, one at a time, as though they had just arrived.

* * *

Then there is the trick of buying seats to the theater and having them left in name of the star. The trickster tells his lady friend that the star has asked him to be their guest for the evening. He takes her with him to the box office, she hears him ask for seats in the star's name—and is, of course, properly impressed he is quite a boy.

A flip young man, stepping from a taxicab with several ladies to have a drink in his apartment, called to the driver: "Come on in and have a drink. Bring your cab!" The driver replied, evenly: "No, thanks, I'm going to see a lady who doesn't drink. That's why I married her." And somehow or other the hilarious group went into the building quietly.

A celebrated violinist has a trick cigaret case of hammered gold that is studded with various jewels. It cost him $1,700. It can only be opened by pressing one certain jewel. The other evening it slid out of his pocket in a taxi. He began a frantic search and followed up with big reward ads in the morning papers. At 4 a. m. the taxi driver returned it, having found it behind the cushion, cleaning his cab in the garage. He would accept no reward. "You might," he said, "tell your friends you found an honest driver. Everybody thinks we are all crooks."

Lest We Forget

By DR. FRANK CRANE

The war has been over nearly 10 years now and the public can do a lot of forgetting in that time.

The worst sufferers from the war are not the dead and are not the people who lost some money.

The dead are beyond our reach. They have made the supreme sacrifice for their country and perhaps they are happier now than when they were here.

But it is the living wrecks of battle who want to be remembered, cripples, blinded and nerve racked, who linger on after the excitement has passed.

There are thousands of disabled ex-service men living today.

Out in an Arizona hospital are one thousand patients from every state in the Union, and I got a letter from one of these men the other day.

They do not like to be pawed over and have no relish for sob stuff, but they are human beings and appreciate attention.

Of course the government ought to do something for them and it generally does, but getting money from a government is rather an unsatisfactory poultice to a crippled man.

It isn't the most fun in the world to have to live in a hospital and have some incurable disease. It is a long, lingering agony and nothing can withstand it except the continued soldierly spirit and brave thoughts.

It is one thing to return from the war and to be lionized by your home town. It is quite another thing to return disabled and be shut up the rest of your life in some institution.

Let us honor the dead and give them all praise, but let us not forget the living, nor fail to let them remind us of the terrible cost of war.

Right Angles

By ALEXANDER CAIRNS

Worth of Considerateness

YOU are hereby cordially invited to attend an open forum, in Blarney Castle, the home of "Right Angles," on the first gala night that the moon and stars outshine each other.

The theme for discussion and mutilation will be "Considerate Courtesy." And the all-star company of speakers will include such illustrious names as:

Sir Walter Raleigh, official bower and scraper to Good Queen Bess; Sir Philip Sidney, also train bearer of Elizabeth and knight of the chivalrous tongue; and Lord Chesterfield, whose manners were polished with silver polish and a chamois, whose diction was manicured to the quick and who was the Gentleman of the Bedchamber to the Prince of Wales when George I led the Grand March in Buckingham Palace; and Beau Brummel, he of the Eton and Oxford culture, who standardized the bon mots, boutonnieres and habiliments of the exclusive world.

We append herewith the advance sheets covering the highlights of the proposed discussion.

Sir Walter Raleigh—Any boy of the Bowery or girl of the Ghetto knows full well that to be considerate is the criterion of a gentleman or gentlewoman. When I spread my reefer for the steps of the Queen, the indifferent deed was immortalized because it was the alpha and the omega of consideration.

Sir Philip Sidney—Every court, from the Grand Monarch of France to that of his Excellency of the White House, will corroborate my word that manners count more than mind or money in elevating men to knighthood and the peerage, and he who is considerate is a resume of good manners.

Lord Chesterfield—My letters to my son, now appearing in my syndicated column in the latest tabloid sheets, have consideration as their center, circumference and radius. Of this clothes and speech and demeanor are but expressions to tingle the ears and sparkle the eyes.

Beau Brummel—I became the fashion plate for the drawing room in speech and raiment by having the motto, "Be Considerate," done in Correggio oils and hung in affluent frame in every nook of my mind and heart.

With this advance information we trust our every guest will come with enough bottled and canned comment to talk the house into a siesta.

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELIS

Elizabeth!

ELIZABETH! the very name
Wakes sleeping fires to sudden flame,
Fresh joys lift glad and golden wings
As through my thoughts her memory sings!

Elizabeth has queenly grace
And regal beauty lights her face,
Where something tender ever reigns,
A loveliness beyond life's stains.

Elizabeth! Her laughter drifts
Like some full, tinkling note that lifts
Its silver echoes to the day;
Her heart can be so blithe, so gay!

Elizabeth knows pity, too,
Her gentle tears drop down like dew
For others' griefs. Her name is truth
Spells sweetness, beauty, grace and youth!
